SUGAR DUTIES ARE REMOVED BY CONGRESS

Ways and Means Committee Recommends Income Tax.

WOULD SHIFT BURDEN TO RICH

Chairman Underwood States That Under New Order Proposed by Democrats Consumers Will Save One and a Half Cents on Each Pound of Sugar and Persons Having Incomes Above $5,000 Annually Will Make Up Treasury Deficit.

Washington, March 2.—In an emphatic manner the Democrats of the house have thrown into congress the important issue of an income tax. In a caucus of the majority party of the house a bill proposing a 1 per cent tax on all net incomes in excess of $5,000 was unanimously indorsed. The bill will be passed within the next two weeks.

The levying of this income tax is the means proposed by the Democrats for meeting the loss of $52,000,000 a year revenue caused by the placing of sugar on the free list. A bill removing the duty on sugar was reported by the ways and means committee. It was indorsed by the Democratic caucus with the members from Louisiana and Colorado, sugar-producing states, bitterly protesting.

Evade Court Decision. The Democrats of the house present a novel method of evading the supreme court decision declaring the income tax unconstitutional. While they acknowledge that the tax proposed by them in the present bill is an income tax pure and simple, they describe it as an extension of the corporation tax law which was passed by congress on the recommendation of President Taft. This amendment purports to extend the corporation tax law to individuals, firms and partnerships having an annual income of more than $5,000. The term "business" as employed in the bill is held to embrace everything about which a person can be employed and all activities which occupy the "time, attention and labor of persons for the purpose of a livelihood or profit."

Accordingly, the terms of the bill apply to professional men as well as to men of business, and to all employees except those who draw their salaries from state, county or municipal governments. The president of the United States himself will be taxed $700 a year if the bill passes, each member of the house will be separated from $25 annually. The regular Republicans in the senate, as soon as they heard of the move by the Democrats, began to argue on the chances of the income bill being passed by that body. This issue that has unexpectedly blown into congress is likely to stir up a greater controversy than any measure that has appeared at this session. The Democrats expect that the proposed tax will raise between $50,000,000 and $60,000,000 annually.

Underwood Explains Bill. Chairman Underwood of the ways and means committee, in explaining the two bills reported to congress, stated that the bill removing the taxes on sugar imported into this country will reduce the price of sugar to the consumer about 1 1/2 cents a pound. He estimates that the people pay to the government and to producers and refiners of sugar by reason of the tax $107,000,000 annually, of which $52,000,000 is paid to the government, the remainder $55,000,000 going to the producers and refiners. He estimates that the revenue derived from the income tax will recompense the government for the loss of sugar duties.

Actress Changes Mind Again. London, March 2.—Gabrielle Ray, the noted actress and English beauty, who flitted Eric Loder at the altar, reconsidered and the couple were quietly married at Windsor. In explanation she declared she suffered from nervous collapse. Loder is heir to an estate of $10,000,000 and had bestowed $100,000 in wedding gifts upon Miss Ray.

SENATOR ANDREWS

Will Face Jury on Bribery Charge Next Week.

Has Many Witnesses

Senator Andrews, Alleged Bribe-taker, Goes on Trial Monday.

Columbus, O., March 2.—Attorneys Belcher & Conner, who will defend Senator L. R. Andrews of Ironton, to be tried Monday on a charge of accepting a bribe, filed a list of 20 witnesses to be subpoenaed for the defense. Most of these are character witnesses.

Senator Crawford, one of the witnesses, is also under indictment. Ten more names were given to be subpoenaed but have not yet been issued for as they were not designated as character or regular witnesses. The state has subpoenaed but one witness so far, W. V. Goshorn of Galion, clerk of the senate, who has been instructed to bring the senate journal and a copy of bill 256, known as the Cetone-Whittemore insurance measure, which is the cause of the trouble.

Bandit Was Held Up

Forced to Divide Money He Secured From Robbers.

New York, March 2.—A robber who robbed the robbers who stole $25,000 from two bank messengers in the financial district two weeks ago was afterwards robbed twice himself.

Such was the chapter added to the taxicab holdup story by the confession of Atteo Arbano. Arbano is anything but a robber in appearance. He is only five feet tall, weighs 100 pounds and wears spectacles. He gave himself up and told the police how he walked into a saloon where the five taxicab bandits were dividing the $25,000 loot, and by pure bluff was given $10,000. As he left the saloon he was in turn held up by two companions and had to divide with them. With $3,000 he fled to Havana, Cuba. In Havana he became acquainted with a woman and after a night of drinking said he found himself short $2,500 which, he alleged, the woman had stolen.

ON the fourteenth anniversary of the destruction of the battleship Maine in Havana harbor (Feb. 15) the cornerstone of the Maine monument was laid in Columbus circle, New York city. It will stand at one of the entrances to Central park, forming a gateway forty four feet high, which will be topped by a bronze group representing Columbia Triumphant cast from the guns recovered from the battleship. The group, of which Attilio Piccirilli is the sculptor, will be thirteen feet high, so that the total height of the monument will be fifty-seven feet. The architect is H. Van Buren Magonigle. Our photograph shows Rear Admiral E. H. C. Leutze, commandant of the New York navy yard (at the extreme left), with the crowd which he used for the ceremony. A short address was delivered by General Daniel E. Sickles. In the metal box which was sealed up in the cornerstone were copies of Captain Charles D. Sigsbee's personal narrative of the disaster and of official reports made to the authorities at Washington. The monument, which, it is expected, will be completed in August, will cost about $175,000. This sum was contributed by more than a million men, women and children, who desired to commemorate the 266 men who lost their lives by the explosion and those who fell in the war with Spain.

LONDON FEELS WOMAN'S IRE IN GREAT RIOT

Suffragettes, on Rampage, Smash Store Windows.

DISPLEASED WITH GOVERNMENT

Proceed Singly to Fashionable West End and Without Warning Hurl Stones and Chunks of Iron Into Department Stores — Asquith's Home Also Attacked—Police, Taken by Surprise, Rally and Arrest Sixty, Including Mrs. Pankhurst.

London, March 2.—Owing to the government's refusal to bring up a woman suffrage bill in parliament, this city had another taste of the determination of the suffragettes to force matters to a crisis. The demonstration came as a complete surprise to the authorities. The women held a mass meeting at their headquarters and then descended to the fashionable West End, where they proceeded to break the windows of the large department stores. Sixty of the women were arrested in a short time. The plateglass windows of the big department stores and clubs on Haymarket, Piccadilly, Bond street, and also over Regent street, the Strand and Oxford street were smashed by the women, who carried lumps of iron and stones. The women quietly submitted to arrest after they had destroyed the windows. The demonstration was one of the biggest ever planned by the woman suffragists. Mrs. Pankhurst was one of the women arrested. Premier Asquith's windows and the windows of other cabinet members were broken. The police had received no warning of the proceedings and consequently were not prepared for the attack, and as a result the district invaded by the women looked like a wreck when the policemen arrived. Police reserves were hastily summoned and a line was hurriedly thrown around the district. The arrested women were quickly packed off to the police station.

Sighs For Old Custom

Congressman Sulloway Prefers Snuff to Toothbrushes.

Washington, March 2.—"If I had my way I would make it a penal offense for any mother to put a toothbrush in the mouth of a child," declared Representative Cyrus Sulloway of New Hampshire, at a hearing before the District of Columbia committee on a bill to regulate dentistry. Representative Sulloway denounced the use of the toothbrush vigorously and lauded the good old days of tobacco chewing and dipped snuff.

YUAN MAKES APOLOGY FOR RIOT

Government Once More In Control of Capital.

Peking, March 2.—Great fires are still raging in distant parts of the city, although the situation here is greatly improved. In the vicinity of the legation quarter everything is much quieter. There was further looting on the outskirts of the city and further mutinies by soldiers are reported from nearby points. The authorities now seem to have the situation in fair control. Foreigners especially are being well looked after.

The acting minister of foreign affairs expressed his regrets to the legations for the rioting and promised every precaution would be taken to protect the lives and property of foreigners hereafter. Later President Yuan Shih Kai issued a manifesto to foreigners lamenting the outbreak and assuring them that all precautions had been taken to prevent a recurrence of the trouble.

The rebel delegates from Nanking, who had to flee to the foreign quarter for safety, are exceedingly angry over their treatment. They say President Yuan Shih Kai made no attempt to protect them.

All foreigners are safe at the various legations, which are heavily guarded. Not one foreigner was killed or injured, but the houses of several were looted.

MANY LICENSE PROPOSALS EXPECTED

Liquor Question to Be Threshed Out Monday.

Columbus, O., March 2.—That there will be more than a score of suggestions to "settle" the vexed liquor license problem when the constitutional convention meets Monday night to take up the Anderson proposal, which does not provide for license, but merely gives the general assembly power to legislate against the evils resulting from the traffic, is the latest prediction made.

Hope of license men still rests in the middle-of-the-road men, who are working out a license proposal on which the majority can agree. It is probable that a conference will be held Monday to put the finishing touches on a proposal which the convention will be ready to accept on second reading and leave to the committee on phraseology for final consideration.

Delegate Anderson of Mahoning county is working out a new plan for restricted license, and even the wets believe his scheme will be a fair one. It developed that Mr. Anderson is at odds with the Anti-Saloon league and some of the extreme dries growing out of the defeat of his restricted license substitute. Mr. Anderson declared it was defeated only because it contained a provision that there should be only one saloon for every 750 inhabitants in territory in which licenses might be granted.

The radical dries forced Mr. Anderson to write this idea into his proposal. He asserted that it caused the loss of two votes which, with the 58 it received, would have been enough to put it across the plate.

LORD CHURCHILL IS PESSIMISTIC OVER BIG LABOR TROUBLE

Takes Gloomy View of English Strike Situation.

SEES NO RIFT IN DARK CLOUDS

Predicts That General Public and Poor Will Be Greatest Sufferers by Gigantic Labor War Precipitated by Walkout of Million Miners. Strikers Prepare For at Least a Week's Vacation Even if Agreement Is Reached.

London, March 2.—At least a week's vacation will be enjoyed by the striking English miners. There is every indication that work will not be resumed at the collieries sooner than that even if there should be a settlement in the meantime. The executive committee of the miners will not meet again before the evening of March 5, and the negotiations with the government are not likely to be resumed before March 6.

"We are not in a hurry," said Mr. Harvey, Laborite member of parliament for Northeast Derbyshire. "We do not mean to conduct this like the railway strike—all rush and hurry and then end in a compromise."

This accurately sums up the universal attitude of the miners. They are convinced that if they sit tight they will obtain the minimum rate schedule they have demanded. They feel themselves masters of the situation.

Sees Trouble Ahead.

That the government is pessimistic in regard to the outlook is obvious from the tone of a speech made by Winston Churchill, the first lord of the admiralty. "There is at present," said he, "no break in the dark clouds covering the horizon. As the conflict proceeds it must bring far greater injuries to the public than to either disputant, it will also bring miseries to the poor."

The Great Central railway seized coal in transit, claiming that it was empowered under the law to do so on condition that it paid the consignees the value of the commodity. The latter are indignant over the action of the railway company, which has caused considerable anxiety, as it is feared other railroads will take similar action.

Sues Fent Executors For Services Rendered

Attorney U. G. Creamer, of Jeffersonville, Sues for Collection of $650 With Interest for Making Real Estate Deal.

A suit of interest was filed in the Common Pleas court Friday when U. G. Creamer, of Jeffersonville brought action against E. H. Smith and A. R. Creamer as executors of the last will and testament of Rachel Fent, deceased, in which he seeks judgment for the sum of $650 with interest from May 26th, 1908.

Mr. Creamer alleges in his petition that the defendants were appointed and legally qualified as executors of the estate of Rachel Fent, late of Jefferson township, and that on May 21st, 1908, the deceased, then being in good health, executed and delivered to Frank Coe a certain deed, conveying to him 167 acres of land in Jeffersonville, the same being described in the petition.

The consideration for the land was $12,800 and an implied consideration arising from actual or supposed services rendered the grantor and her husband by Mr. Coe, the conveyance being legally transferred.

On May 24th, 1908, the grantor (Mrs. Fent) is alleged to have become dissatisfied with the conveyance believing it would injure her estate, and she, wishing to recall and cancel the deed given to Mr. Coe, employed the plaintiff to have the conveyance set aside and the land returned to her.

This Mr. Creamer alleges that he did, securing a recall of the transaction and a legal deed from Mr. Coe to Mrs. Fent, the deal being made on May 25th, 1908, and the consideration was the same as Mrs. Fent had received $12,800.

Plaintiff further alleges that the land was really worth about $25,050, and that by bringing about the transaction whereby Mrs. Fent regained control of the land, that he enhanced her estate in the sum of $12,250, and for his services he believes $650 a reasonable sum.

Mr. Creamer alleges that he had filed his account with the executors of the estate, and that they rejected his claim, wherefore he asks that the principal sum claimed be allowed him, together with interest from May 26, 1908.

Many of these persons stated that their live stock appeared greatly disturbed and said this was usually a sure indication of a severe storm.

REPELS ATTACK OF DEATH

"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim. It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Cupid Must Hustle Leap Year Quiet

So far the leap year marriages number just 31, or one more than during the same time last year. Are the men timid in answering the all important question, or are the girls too timid to ask the question.

During the month of January last year 14 licenses were issued and 17 this year. This was a good start, but when it came to February the number was 16 last year and dropped to 14 this year, and Cupid must work over time to regain the lost ground, as the final 366th day will not be sufficient to bring the number up to a record breaking list of leap year marriages.

So far this year the number of divorces has been ten, divided up eight for January and two for February. Both months are regarded as light months in numbers of marriages. Of the 31 couples married only one couple were colored.

CHINESE SEAWEED AS FOOD.

Freer commercial contact with China may quite possibly introduce into our table menus varieties of spicy concoctions from seaweed. About 130 nutritive kinds of seaweed are in daily consumption in the far east and the cultivation of seaweed crops is regularly maintained. More than $600,000 worth of one preparation alone is consumed every year in China in the form of dried gums which can be liquefied into delicate jellies. In Europe seaweed has not been at all considerably used for food, though blanchmanges, salads, green vegetables and a sort of tapioca fluid have been forms in which Scotch, Irish and Mediterranean peasants have partaken of the substances of seaweed. In certain parts of Japan seaweed is subjected to careful cultivation, competing species being suppressed and rocks previously planted with the weed, being sunk in suitable bays.

MAKING A NEW WORLD.

The planet Jupiter, whose volume is 1,279 times that of the earth, and superior in dimensions and weight to all the other planets put together, is just now attracting the attention of astronomers. M. Giacobini of the Paris observatory, who has made a special study of Jupiter, has described a red spot which possesses a relative fixity, but within the last year its mobility has increased to great proportions, and its longitude by about 30 degrees. That is all that we can say scientifically. Is it really the formation of a new continent? Can we draw this deduction from this phenomenon so difficult to seize? It is possible, but who can say so with certainty? M. Camille Flammarion, however, expresses himself with far greater confidence in this matter: "We are assisting at the creation of a world. Under our dazzled eyes a new world is being created in the infinity and in Jupiter we hail the world of the future."

AFRICANS WHO EAT CLAY

Natives of West Africa, in French Sudan, practice "geophagy." Although the practice is common in many parts of the world, this particular case is remarkable for the systematic way in which the dirt is collected, and for the fact that it occurs in a well cultivated region, where food is abundant. The earth consumed is a clay, which is found intercalated among the grits of the region in beds of various thickness. The deeper layers are preferred and for this reason the natives dig galleries, which are so crudely constructed that falls of earth frequently occur, sometimes with fatal results. When an unlucky miner is thus buried no attempt is made to rescue him, as it is believed that the divinities of the mines require an annual victim. It is stated that individuals not infrequently consume seven and a half pounds of clay daily.

Interesting Wheat Experiment Made

An increase in wheat yield from 4 1-4 bushels to 38 1-3 bushels per acre, due wholly to differences in methods of preparing the land before seeding, certainly seems extraordinary but that is exactly what was done in an experiment made last year at the Kansas Experiment Station by Professor L. E. Call, a former graduate of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University. The results of this experiment should be of interest to every farmer in Ohio. Land disked, but not plowed, cost $1.95 per acre for preparation and produced 4 1-4 bushels of wheat per acre. Land plowed three inches deep, September 15, gave a yield of 14 1-2 bushels, but when plowed 7 inches deep, September 15, gave a yield of 15 3-4 bushels. Land double-disked July 15th, to save moisture, and plowed 7 inches deep September 15, gave a yield of 23 1-2 bushels. When plowing was done Aug. 15 and worked sufficiently to preserve a soil mulch thereafter, gave a yield of 27 3-4 bu. per acre. Land double disked July 15, to save moisture and plowed Aug. 15, 7 in. deep, produced 34 2-3 bushels per acre. When the land was plowed July 15, 7 inches deep, the yield was 38 1-3 bushels per acre. After paying for the cost of preparation there was left $25.74 per acre, the largest net return of any method under trial.

Fee Can Be Drawn By the Sheriffs

By an opinion Thursday to Prosecuting Attorney Turney, Attorney General Hogan gives to Sheriff Sartain $300 which Mr. Turner had denied him and opens the way for every one of the 88 sheriffs of the state to get a maximum of $300 a year more than they have been receiving. The cost to the state may be $26,400. In giving out the opinion Mr. Hogan's office declared the fee law is being followed literally. The particular section was written in through the influence of State Sheriffs' association, it was said. The section was rewritten into the Canfield fee law at the last legislative session. It provides "the sheriff shall receive in addition to his salary his legal fees for services in

Sues Fent Executors For Services Rendered

Attorney U. G. Creamer, of Jeffersonville, Sues for Collection of $650 With Interest for Making Real Estate Deal.

A suit of interest was filed in the Common Pleas court Friday when U. G. Creamer, of Jeffersonville brought action against Eli Smith and A. R. Creamer as executors of the last will and testament of Rachel Fent, deceased, in which he seeks judgment for the sum of $650 with interest from May 26th, 1908.

Mr. Creamer alleges in his petition that the defendants were appointed and legally qualified as executors of the estate of Rachel Fent, late of Jefferson township, and that on May 21st, 1908, the deceased, then being in good health, executed and delivered to Frank Coe a certain deed, conveying to him 167 acres of land in Jeffersonville, the same being described in the petition.

The consideration for the land was $12,800 and an implied consideration arising from actual or supposed services rendered the grantor and her husband by Mr. Coe, the conveyance being legally transferred.

On May 24th, 1908, the grantor (Mrs. Fent) is alleged to have become dissatisfied with the conveyance believing it would injure her estate, and she, wishing to recall and cancel the deed given to Mr. Coe, employed the plaintiff to have the conveyance set aside and the land returned to her.

This Mr. Creamer alleges that he did, securing a recall of the transaction and a legal deed from Mr. Coe to Mrs. Fent, the deed being made on May 25th, 1908, and the consideration was the same as Mrs. Fent had received $12,800.

Plaintiff further alleges that the land was really worth about $25,000, and that by bringing about the transaction whereby Mrs. Fent regained control of the land, that he enhanced her estate in the sum of $12,250, and for his services he believes $650 a reasonable sum.

Mr. Creamer alleges that he had filed his account with the executors of the estate, and that they rejected his claim, wherefore he asks that the principal sum claimed be allowed him, together with interest from May 26, 1908.

REPELS ATTACK OF DEATH.

"Five years ago two doctors told me I had only two years to live." This startling statement was made by Stillman Green, Malachite, Col. "They told me I would die with consumption. It was up to me then to try the best lung medicine and I began to use Dr. King's New Discovery. It was well I did, for today I am working and believe I owe my life to this great throat and lung cure that has cheated the grave of another victim." It's folly to suffer with coughs, colds or other throat and lung troubles now. Take the cure that's safest. Price 50 cents and $1.00. Trial bottle free at Blackmer & Tanquary.

Cupid Must Hustle Leap Year Quiet

So far the leap year marriages number just 31, or one more than during the same time last year. Are the men timid in answering the all important question, or are the girls too timid to ask the question.

During the month of January last year 14 licenses were issued and 17 this year. This was a good start, but when it came to February the number was 16 last year and dropped to 14 this year, and Cupid must work over time to regain the lost ground, as the final 366th day will not be sufficient to bring the number up to a record breaking list of leap year marriages.

So far this year the number of divorces have been ten, divided up eight for January and two for February. Both months are regarded as light months in numbers of marriages. Of the 31 couples married only one couple were colored.

CHINESE SEAWEED AS FOOD.

Freer commercial contact with China may quite possibly introduce into our table menus varieties of spicy concoctions from seaweed. About 130 nutritive kinds of seaweed are in daily consumption in the far east and the cultivation of seaweed crops is regularly maintained. More than $600,000 worth of one preparation alone is consumed every year in China in the form of dried gums which can be liquefied in to delicate jellies. In Europe seaweed has not been at all considerably used for food, though blanchmanges, salads, green vegetables and a sort of tapioca fluid have been forms in which Scotch, Irish and Mediterranean peasants have partaken of the substances of seaweed. In certain parts of Japan seaweed is subjected to careful cultivation, competing species being suppressed and rocks previously planted with the weed, being sunk in suitable bays.

MAKING A NEW WORLD.

The planet Jupiter, whose volume is 1,279 times that of the earth, and superior in dimensions and weight to all the other planets put together, is just now attracting the attention of astronomers. M. Giacobini of the Paris observatory, who has made a special study of Jupiter, has described a red spot which possesses a relative fixity, but within the last year its mobility has increased to great proportions, and its longitude by about 30 degrees. That is all that we can say scientifically. Is it really the formation of a new continent? Can we draw this deduction from this phenomenon so difficult to seize? It is possible, but who can say so with certainty? M. Camille Flammarion, however, expresses himself with far greater confidence in this matter: "We are assisting at the creation of a world. Under our dazzled eyes a new world is being created in the infinity and in Jupiter we hail the world of the future."

AFRICANS WHO EAT CLAY

Natives of West Africa, in French Sudan, practice "geophagy." Although the practice is common in many parts of the world, this particular case is remarkable for the systematic way in which the dirt is collected, and for the fact that it occurs in a well cultivated region, where food is abundant. The earth consumed is a clay, which is found intercalated among the grits of the region in beds of various thickness. The deeper layers are preferred and for this reason the natives dig galleries, which are so crudely constructed that falls of earth frequently occur, sometimes with fatal results. When an unlucky miner is thus buried no attempt is made to rescue him, as it is believed that the divinites of the mines require an annual victim. It is stated that individuals not infrequently consume seven and a half pounds of clay daily.

Interesting Wheat Experiment Made

An increase in wheat yield from 4 1-4 bushels to 38 1-3 bushels per acre, due wholly to differences in methods of preparing the land before seeding, certainly seems extraordinary but that is exactly what was done in an experiment made last year at the Kansas Experiment Station by Professor L. E. Call, a former graduate of the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University. The results of this experiment should be of interest to every farmer in Ohio. Land disked, but not plowed, cost $1.95 per acre for preparation and produced 4 1-4 bushels of wheat per acre. Land plowed three inches deep, September 15, gave a yield of 14 1-2 bushels, but when plowed 7 inches deep, September 15, gave a yield of 15 3-4 bushels. Land double-disked July 15th, to save moisture, and plowed 7 inches deep September 15, gave a yield of 23 1-2 bushels. When plowing was done Aug. 15 and worked sufficiently to preserve a soil mulch thereafter, gave a yield of 27 3-4 bu. per acre. Land double disked July 15, to save moisture and plowed Aug. 15, 7 in. deep, produced 34 2-3 bushels per acre. When the land was plowed July 15, 7 inches deep, the yield was 38 1-3 bushels per acre. After paying for the cost of preparation there was left $25.74 per acre, the largest net return of any method under trial.

Not content with this phenomenon a third ring made its appearance to the east of the circle about the sun, and remained for some time, all three halos being unusually distinct and standing out clear against the hazy heavens.

Following the appearance of the third circle of light, a well defined rainbow appeared high in the west, together with numerous vivid spots throughout the heavens at various points. The entire sky appeared to be filled with luminous circles, spots and rainbows.

Ten miles south of the city nine rainbows were counted keeping company with the three mystic circles. The phenomenon commenced early in the forenoon and continued until late in the afternoon, to the great mystification of tens of thousands who watched the ever changing figures in the sky, the like of which had never before been witnessed in this part of the country.

An explanation which seems entirely satisfactory, is that the luminous rings, or more properly termed corona, were due entirely to a rare condition of the atmosphere, and were caused by the diffraction produced by suspended particles of ice or moisture high up in the heavens, probably 25,000 or even 30,000 feet.

The clouds in which the corona appeared are known as cirrus haze, and generally forecast a storm.

From points throughout the county where the citizens witnessed the phenomenon, telephone messages were received by The Herald, asking for information concerning the un-

Presented Chief With Gold Badge

Chief of Police McCoy is displaying an unusually handsome solid gold badge bearing his name and official position, which was presented to him Friday night by Mayor Harvey W. Smith on behalf of a large number of citizens who had banded together in order to surprise him with the handsome remembrance.

Chief McCoy was decidedly surprised when the badge was presented and was justly proud of the attractive emblem.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

An exceptionally charming little affair of Friday afternoon was given by Mrs. H. B. Dahl in honor of Mrs. Will Wood and Mrs. Robert Palmer, of Cincinnati, and giving them the opportunity of meeting old and intimate friends.

It was an opportunity of reciprocal interest, the two attractive young matrons having been greatly missed from Washington circles.

Mrs. Walter Dunlap, of Greenfield, was another delightful out of town guest and also enjoying Mrs. Dahl's hospitality were Mesdames D. S. Craig, Ray Maynard, George Hitchcock, Fuller Hess, Gerrie Spragg, Misses Marie Pursell, Anne Quinn and Florence Ustick.

After a Victrola program of especially choice records a delicious collation was served. Sweet peas and asparagus fern formed artistic center decoration for the pretty table at which the guests were seated. Assisting were Misses Mary Dahl and Virginia Campbell.

Speakers Chosen

The W. C. H. High school speakers for the triangular debate between the High schools of Chillicothe, Washington C. H., and Circleville, to be held this spring, were decided in a preliminary debate at the High school hall.

The preliminary trial debate was on the same subject as will be argued at the triangular debate, Resolved, "That Commission is Preferable to an Established Form of Government in the Cities."

The local representatives were chosen by the judges as follows:

Affirmative: 1st, Davis Edwards; 2nd, Maynard Craig; 3rd, Nellie Miller; 4th, Maxwell Dice.

Negative: 1st, Paul Zimmerman; 2nd, James Ballard; 3rd, Roy Thorp; 4th, Ned Erskine.

The winners on the affirmative side will take the platform against opponents in their home town; the winners on the negative match the teams from home.

Each side will have three speakers and an alternate, which necessitated the choosing of four debaters.

The debate in this city will be on the 22nd of March.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

One of the real big treats of each theatrical season is that old but ever popular stage story, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," as presented by Stetson's big spectacular company, which will be seen at The Empire Opera House March 4.

As in former years, Manager Washburn has equipped his sterling company with all new effects and startling scenic, electrical and mechanical surprises are promised. The vaudeville and specialty numbers are said to be of the 1909 brand, while the negro melodies and the old southern plantation songs are rendered as only the genuine southern darkies know how to sing them.

YVETTE GUILBERT'S NEW POSE

Successful Singer Asserts She Will Build Theater to Help the Struggling Musician.

Undiscovered genius is no longer to sit and eat its heart out in some poor garret of the Latin Quarter. Yvette Guilbert, she of the long gloves, the Titian locks and the big heart, is to build a theater for his especial benefit. For many years she has taken an interest in the long-haired genius of several professions and she now hopes to give the great unacted and unheard a chance to exhibit their stunts before an appreciative public without the interference of a coldly commercial manager.

"I am going to have a little hall all my own," she said to me. "I am concerned most of all for the poor unknown composers and musicians, who have a truly hard time of it in present conditions. I will have a tiny orchestra of selected musicians which will give the works of men and women who are at present appreciated only by the intellectual. With the profits I am sure I will make I will build a Maison des Artistes, similar to institutions to be found in almost every city. There great artists of every kind, when they visit Paris, the world's center of arts, can be feted and entertained in a proper way. Musical and literary celebrations will be held there and it will serve as a meeting place for all who are interested in the arts."

Guilbert is still a wonderfully young looking woman. She is one of the easiest of French celebrities to reach and certainly one of the pleasantest to interview.

House in Which Pasteur Was Born Is to Be Preserved as a Memorial.

Mr. Rockefeller's subscription of $11,000 to the fund which is being raised to purchase and maintain the little house at Dole, in the Jura department where Pasteur was born, has aroused a feeling of humiliation in France, which is thus placed in the position of allowing a foreigner to supply the money necessary to honor one of her great men.

Presented Chief With Gold Badge

Chief of Police McCoy is displaying an unusually handsome solid gold badge bearing his name and official position, which was presented to him Friday night by Mayor Harvey W. Smith on behalf of a large number of citizens who had banded together in order to surprise him with the handsome remembrance.
Chief McCoy was decidedly surprised when the badge was presented and is justly proud of the attractive emblem.

IN SOCIAL CIRCLES

An exceptionally charming little affair of Friday afternoon was given by Mrs. H. B. Dahl in honor of Mrs. Will Wood and Mrs. Robert Palmer, of Cincinnati, and giving them the opportunity of meeting old and intimate friends.

It was an opportunity of reciprocal interest, the two attractive young matrons having been greatly missed from Washington circles.

Mrs. Walter Dunlap, of Greenfield, was another delightful out of town guest and also enjoying Mrs. Dahl's hospitality were Mesdames D. S. Craig, Ray Maynard, George Hitchcock, Fuller Hess, Gerrie Spragg, Misses Marie Pursell, Anne Quinn and Florence Ustick.

After a Victrola program of especially choice records a delicious collation was served. Sweet peas and asparagus fern formed artistic center decoration for the pretty table at which the guests were seated. Assisting were Misses Mary Dahl and Virginia Campbell.

Speakers Chosen

The W. C. H. High school speakers for the triangular debate between the High schools of Chillicothe, Washington C. H., and Circleville, to be held this spring, were decided in a preliminary debate at the High school hall.

The preliminary trial debate was on the same subject as will be argued at the triangular debate, Resolved, "That Commission is Preferable to an Established Form of Government in the Cities."

The local representatives were chosen by the judges as follows:

Affirmative: 1st, Davis Edwards; 2nd, Maynard Craig; 3rd, Nellie Miller; 4th, Maxwell Dice.
Negative: 1st, Paul Zimmerman; 2nd, James Ballard; 3rd, Roy Thorp; 4th, Ned Erskine.

The winners on the affirmative side will take the platform against opponents in their home town; the winners on the negative match the teams from home.

Each side will have three speakers and an alternate, which necessitated the choosing of four debaters.

The debate in this city will be on the 22nd of March.

The vaudeville and specialty numbers are said to be of the 1909 brand, while the negro melodies and the old southern plantation songs are rendered as only the genuine southern darkies know how to sing them.

YVETTE GUILBERT'S NEW POSE

Successful Singer Asserts She Will Build Theater to Help the Struggling Musician.

Undiscovered genius is no longer to sit and eat its heart out in some poor garret of the Latin Quarter. Yvette Guilbert, she of the long gloves, the Titian locks and the big heart, is to build a theater for his especial benefit. For many years she has taken an interest in the long-haired genius of several professions and she now hopes to give the great unacted and unheard a chance to exhibit their stunts before an appreciative public without the interference of a coldly commercial manager.

"I am going to have a little hall all my own," she said to me. "I am concerned most of all for the poor unknown composers and musicians, who have a truly hard time of it in present conditions. I will have a tiny orchestra of selected musicians which will give the works of men and women who are at present appreciated only by the intellectual. With the profits I am sure I will make I will build a Maison des Artistes, similar to institutions to be found in almost every celebration will be held there. There great artists of every kind, when they visit Paris, the world's center of arts, can be feted and entertained in a proper way. Musical and literary celebrations will be held there and it will serve as a meeting place for all who are interested in the arts."

Guilbert is still a wonderfully young looking woman. She is one of the easiest of French celebrities to reach and certainly one of the pleasantest to interview.

BIRTHPLACE OF GREAT MAN

House in Which Pasteur Was Born is to Be Preserved as a Memorial.

Mr. Rockefeller's subscription of $11,000 to the fund which is being raised to purchase and maintain the little house at Dole, in the Jura department where Pasteur was born, has aroused a feeling of humiliation in France, which is thus placed in the position of allowing a foreigner to supply the money necessary to honor one of her great men.

Pasteur's father was a soldier in the army of the Great Napoleon and was 25 when he retired to his native country after the collapse of the empire.

and earned a living as a tanner. Pasteur has written of his parents: "Oh! father and mother! My beloved departed, who lived so modestly in this little house, it is to you that I owe everything! Your enthusiasm, my brave mother, you impressed upon me. If I have ever and always associated the greatness of science with the greatness of my country it is because I was impregnated with sentiments inspired by you. And you, dear father, whose life was as hard as your own hard occupation, you showed me what patience in long efforts can achieve. It is to you I owe my tenacity in daily work."

The subscription toward the purchase of the house has not been closed. Mr. Rockefeller's suggestion that it should remain open having been acted upon, several foreign universities and many communes and villages have sent subscriptions to the mayor of Dole.

IMPRISON THE LEADERS.

Would it not be a good thing for the United States to take a hand and stop the fight in Mexico? Why let those people down there fight and fight for power, while the countless multitudes that are not interested one way or the other, bear the brunt of the battle and take home with them suffering, and distress, without gaining any good for their suffering? It is simply an endeavor on the part of crude, barbaric politicians to obtain power, ease and luxury by the force of arms at the expense of the rights of the common people.

It is the old story, as old as the world. It is the endeavor of selfish interests backed by magnanimous support to attain individual and private ends under the cloak of reformation, and when it is all done and the change is effected, when the rebellious power has enthroned itself, has full opportunity to work out the principals for which it contended, the people have nothing to look forward to, but misrule, mismanagement, drudgery, poverty and suffering, until a new agitator takes the field and by feverish appeals, false and foolish logic, makes the bloody race to enthrone himself as the ruling power.

Would it not be right for the United States to stop this thing? Of course they would be criticised; the world would say that the United States was endeavoring to absorb Mexico. But if we interfere it would be a great deal like a neighbor interfering in a quarrel between husband and wife—the antagonists would unite in their hostility against the pacificator. However, the element in Mexico that would so unite would simply be those who have private ambitions to fulfill at public expense. The criticism would not come from those who were relieved, but from those who were disappointed. It certainly would not be a bad proposition for Mexico to come under the rule of the United States Government. With free schools, with railroads, adequate protection to capital, with the proper sort of financial management, with courts of justice that count, with legislators that legislate for the good of the people, the Mexicans would soon become a civilized people, the fruits of their labor would rapidly become a factor in the economical problem of the world, and above all things the misguided masses of that great country, now shivering and suffering in the twilight zone of civilization, would be happier, healthier, worthier people; Mexico would be something and worth something.

Here would be an opportunity for the United States to do something great and noble, if undertaken in the right spirit, instead of talking about the annexation of Canada, a country having practically as good a system of government as we have, together with fully as capable a class of officials, backed by public sentiment and altogether as well enlightened as our own.

The average citizen is open to conviction and the police records show that a great many have been "convicted." Still that is no reason why a never ending effort should not be made by every city to convince its citizens of the importance of spending their money at home, thereby adding to the local resources. It's a downright calamity when foreign-sold goods are delivered in our midst, if an energetic local dealer handles the same and sells at equal prices.

Every man owes it to the community to make a success. Strong and successful men are public benefactors. Weak kneed don't care men occupying positions of vantage in a community are a positive detriment.

March didn't come in exactly like a lion, but a blind man could not have told the difference.

Married Man Should Have Some Liberty

By Ruth Marsh

then all faith and harmony are a thing of the past.

I was married and know whereof I speak. My husband used to be fond of shouldering a gun and going hunting occasionally. Some young women would say to me: "And you here all alone; why, I would not stand it!" Just as though that man had to hang to my apron strings all the time! I would answer them that he could do a lot worse. That's the idea most young girls and married women labor under, just as though a man had no rights left after marrying.

Yet when a wife is sick a man ought not to think too much of himself to tie on his wife's apron and get busy when they can't afford any help. I say "they" and not "he" because people when they are married ought to be equals in all things, but the man ought to be the provider and until he can make a home for a wife he ought not to think of matrimony.

Poetry - Today

THE CHANGELINGS.

From state to state, with weary feet,
Went he in fruitless quest,
To find the place where bound'ries meet—
Where there's no East or West.

"Old man," I cried, "come stop and rest,
And I will spread a feast,
So you can tell me whence the West
And where you found the East."

He shook his head, and then confessed
His fruitless search had ceased
"I find," quoth he, "that East is West—
The West is now the East."

"Oh, sir," said I, "you do but jest,
For such things cannot be.
The East is east and West is west,
Each bounded by the sea."

"It's all too true," quoth he, distressed,
"I joke not in the least,
The tamest East is now out West,
The wildest West is East!"

—Puck

WHICH ONE?

PICKS AT DYNAMITE CARTRIDGE WITH PIN

Curiosity Leads Lad to Investigate Small Blasting Cap—Family in Hospital.

New York.—While waiting for his mother to arrange the dinner table recently John Guda, 17 years old, of 2500 Arthur avenue, undertook to amuse himself and pass away the time picking at a small dynamite blasting cartridge with a safety pin.

His curiosity led to an explosion by which he will lose three fingers. His mother and little sister are in Fordham hospital with him. Each is lacerated by pieces of the exploded shell.

Guda picked away industriously at the little copper cylinder until the pin pierced the wadding. The copper which encased the explosive was scattered in every direction. The room had the appearance of being wrecked by scrapnel.

Mrs. Mary Guda, his mother, was standing in the doorway. Two pieces of the shell tore through her dress and were embedded in her right arm above the elbow. Little Mary Guda, 3 years old, was playing in the corner with her toys and she was badly cut in the temple.

A WAITING GAME.

"Suppose you wait here in this comfortable seat while I match these two samples of ribbon," said Mrs. Simson sweetly to her husband, who had been entrapped into going shopping with her.

When she came back she said contritely, "Have I kept you waiting an unpardonable long time, you poor dear?"

"Oh, I haven't minded it," he said cheerfully. "I just jumped on a car and ran out to the football match, and then I took a little spin in Jack Dance's new motor car. Did you match the samples?"

"One of them. It's so provoking. I shall have to come in again tomorrow, for they are just closing the shop."

Not Natural.

"Are you feeling perfectly well now, Mrs. Perkins?"

"Yes, I'm well enough."

"I thought Dr. Bright would be able to cure you. You must feel awfully happy."

"I really can't say that I do. Somehow I can't make it seem just right not to have any medicine in the house to take."

NEWS FROM BUCKEYE CITIES

Will Not Remove Post.

Columbus, O., March 2.—Following Secretary of War Stimson's suggestion that a number of the government army posts should be abandoned, comes the announcement from Washington that the Columbus post not only will be maintained, but may be enlarged. The Columbus barracks is not, in a strict sense, a military post, but a quartermasters depot and recruiting station. Only two other such recruiting stations are maintained, New York and St. Louis.

Change Date For Foraker.

Columbus, O., March 2.—Former Senator Joseph B. Foraker has written Secretary Galbreath of the constitutional convention that he will address the convention Thursday, March 14, instead of Tuesday, March 12, as he originally planned. William Jennings Bryan wrote that he could come Monday, March 11. As the convention is not in session on Mondays, Secretary Galbreath has asked him to fix another date.

Find Operator Unconscious.

Zanesville, O., March 2.—For six hours William A. Romine, 24, a Baltimore & Ohio telegraph operator at Sonora, sat unconscious at his key until a train, failing to get its signals, stopped and the crew discovered his plight. Still unconscious, he is said to be dying of concussion of the brain. His family says he was kicked on the forehead by a Colt, but the injury was considered trifling at the time.

Aged Couple Hit by Train.

Ravenna, O., March 2.—Sage Hurlbert, 68, a prominent farmer of Freedom township, was killed, and his wife who is near the same age, fatally mangled when the closed carriage in which they were driving was struck from the rear by fast west-bound passenger train No. 3 on the Erie railway, at a diagonal crossing five miles from this place.

IMPRISON THE LEADERS.

Would it not be a good thing for the United States to take a hand and stop the fight in Mexico? Why let those people down there fight and fight for power, while the countless multitudes that are not interested one way or the other, bear the brunt of the battle and take home with them suffering, and distress, without gaining any good for their suffering? It is simply an endeavor on the part of crude, barbaric politicians to obtain power, ease and luxury by the force of arms at the expense of the rights of the common people.

It is the old story, as old as the world. It is the endeavor of selfish interests backed by magnanimous support to attain individual and private ends under the cloak of reformation, and when it is all done and the change is effected, when the rebellious power has enthroned itself, has full opportunity to work out the principals for which it contended, the people have nothing to look forward to, but misrule, mismanagement, drudgery, poverty and suffering, until a new agitator takes the field and by feverish appeals, false and foolish logic, makes the bloody race to enthrone himself as the ruling power.

Would it not be right for the United States to stop this thing? Of course they would be criticised; the world would say that the United States was endeavoring to absorb Mexico. But if we interfere it would be a great deal like a neighbor interfering in a quarrel between husband and wife—the antagonists would unite in their hostility against the pacificator. However, the element in Mexico that would so unite would simply be those who have private ambitions to fulfill at public expense. The criticism would not come from those who were relieved, but from those who were disappointed. It certainly would not be a bad proposition for Mexico to come under the rule of the United States Government. With free schools, with railroads, adequate protection to capital, with the proper sort of financial management, with courts of justice that count, with legislators that legislate for the good of the people, the Mexicans would soon become a civilized people, the fruits of their labor would rapidly become a factor in the economical problem of the world, and above all things the misguided masses of that great country, now shivering and suffering in the twilight zone of civilization, would be happier, healthier, worthier people; Mexico would be something and worth something.

Here would be an opportunity for the United States to do something great and noble, if undertaken in the right spirit, instead of talking about the annexation of Canada, a country having practically as good a system of government as we have, together with fully as capable a class of officials, backed by public sentiment and altogether as well enlightened as our own.

The average citizen is open to conviction and the police records show that a great many have been "convicted." Still that is no reason why a never ending effort should not be made by every city to convince its citizens of the importance of spending their money at home, thereby adding to the local resources. It's a downright calamity when foreign-sold goods are delivered in our midst, if an energetic local dealer handles the same and sells at equal prices.

Every man owes it to the community to make a success. Strong and successful men are public benefactors. Weak kneed don't care men occupying positions of vantage in a community are a positive detriment.

March didn't come in exactly like a lion, but a blind man could not have told the difference.

Married Man Should Have Some Liberty

By Ruth Marsh

When a man thinks enough of a woman to ask her to be his wife—he means a companion and helpmate for life, for better or for worse. And when he marries his choice does he know what is before him, the obstacles he has to overcome? I think the marriage question is looked at too lightly, especially when people are too young and unable to realize what they are going into.

It is easy enough to get married, and easy enough to stay married, if people do not form the idea that they are slaving for one another. When they once form that idea they might as well call it off, because then all faith and harmony are a thing of the past.

I was married and know whereof I speak. My husband used to be fond of shouldering a gun and going hunting occasionally. Some young women would say to me: "And you here all alone; why, I would not stand it!" Just as though that man had to hang to my apron strings all the time! I would answer them that he could do a lot worse. That's the idea most young girls and married women labor under, just as though a man had no rights left after marrying.

Yet when a wife is sick a man ought not to think too much of himself to tie on his wife's apron and get busy when they can't afford any help. I say "they" and not "he" because people when they are married ought to be equals in all things, but the man ought to be the provider and until he can make a home for a wife he ought not to think of matrimony.

Poetry—Today

THE CHANGELINGS.

From state to state, with weary feet,
Went he in fruitless quest.
To find the place where bound'ries meet—
Where there's no East or West

"Old man," I cried, "come stop and rest,
And I will spread a feast,
So you can tell me whence the West
And where you found the East."

He shook his head, and then confessed
His fruitless search had ceased
"I find," quoth he, "that East is West—
The West is now the East."

"Oh, sir," said I, "you do but jest.
For such things cannot be.
The East is east and West is west
Each bounded by the sea."

"It's all too true," quoth he, distressed,
"I joke not in the least.
The tamest East is now out West—
The wildest West is East!"

—Puck

PICKS AT DYNAMITE CARTRIDGE WITH PIN

Curiosity Leads Lad to Investigate Small Blasting Cap—Family in Hospital.

New York.—While waiting for his mother to arrange the dinner table recently John Guda, 17 years old, of 2500 Arthur avenue, undertook to amuse himself and pass away the time picking at a small dynamite blasting cartridge with a safety pin.

His curiosity led to an explosion by which he will lose three fingers. His mother and little sister are in Fordham hospital with him. Each is lacerated by pieces of the exploded shell. Guda picked away industriously at the little copper cylinder until the pin pierced the wadding. The copper which encased the explosive was scattered in every direction. The room had the appearance of being wrecked by scorpions.

Mrs. Mary Guda, his mother, was standing in the doorway. Two pieces of the shell tore through her dress and were embedded in her right arm above the elbow. Little Mary Guda, 3 years old, was playing in the corner with her toys and she was badly cut in the temple.

A WAITING GAME.

"Suppose you wait here in this comfortable seat while I match these two samples of ribbon," said Mrs. Simson sweetly to her husband, who had been entrapped into going shopping with her.

When she came back she said contritely, "Have I kept you waiting an unpardonable long time, you poor dear?"

"Oh, I haven't minded it," he said cheerfully. "I just jumped on a car and ran out to the football match, and then I took a little spin in Jack Dance's new motor car. Did you match the samples?"

"One of them. It's so provoking. I shall have to come in again tomorrow, for they are just closing the shop."

Not Natural.

"Are you feeling perfectly well now, Mrs. Perkins?"

"Yes, I'm well enough."

"I thought Dr. Bright would be able to cure you. You must feel awfully happy."

"I really can't say that I do. Somehow I can't make it seem just right not to have any medicine in the house to take."

NEWS FROM BUCKEYE CITIES

Will Not Remove Post.

Columbus, O., March 2.—Following Secretary of War Stimson's suggestion that a number of the government army posts should be abandoned, comes the announcement from Washington that the Columbus post not only will be maintained, but may be enlarged. The Columbus barracks is not, in a strict sense, a military post, but a quartermasters depot and recruiting station. Only two other such recruiting stations are maintained, New York and St. Louis.

Change Date For Foraker.

Columbus, O., March 2.—Former Senator Joseph B. Foraker has written Secretary Galbreath of the constitutional convention that he will address the convention Thursday, March 14, instead of Tuesday, March 12, as he originally planned. William Jennings Bryan wrote that he could come Monday, March 11. As the convention is not in session on Mondays, Secretary Galbreath has asked him to fix another date.

Find Operator Unconscious.

Zanesville, O., March 2.—For six hours William A. Romine, 24, a Baltimore & Ohio telegraph operator at Sonora, sat unconscious at his key until a train, failing to get its signals, stopped and the crew discovered his plight. Still unconscious, he is said to be dying of concussion of the brain. His family says he was kicked on the forehead by a coil, but the injury was considered trifling at the time.

Law Will Be Enforced Against Selling Bad Eggs

All Eggs Must Be Candled or Persons Disposing of Eggs Unfit for Food Must Stand Liable to Prosecution Under the Pure Food Laws—Warnings Have Been Issued in This City.

Large posters from the Ohio State Dairy and Food Commissioner's office have been forwarded to the local board of health to be posted in conspicuous places in the city, to warn all who handle eggs that no unwholesome eggs must be sold.

The warning reads in part: "The Ohio law forbids the sale or offering for sale of eggs unfit for human food, section 5778, subdivision 5: 'If it consists wholly, or in part, of a diseased, decomposed, putrid, infected, tainted or rotten animal or vegetable substance, etc.'"

To avoid the penalties under above law, all persons are requested to candle all eggs sold or offered for sale on and after March, 1912. Inspectors of this department are instructed to secure the co-operation of local health officers in the enforcement of this law.

The bulletin also contains the following: SUGGESTIONS TO FARMERS. Provide plenty of clean, dry nests for your hens.

Gather the eggs daily in cool weather and twice each day in hot or rainy weather.

Do not wash eggs. Use the dirty and small eggs at home.

Keep eggs in a cool dry place which is free from odors.

Don't sell eggs which have been in an incubator.

Market your eggs daily. If possible, if not, every other day.

Do not sell eggs which were found in a stolen nest.

Keep the eggs out of the sun when taking them to town.

Don't keep eggs near oil, onions, etc., as they readily absorb odors.

The law provides a penalty for offering bad eggs, and it will be enforced to a great extent. This will be instrumental in breaking up the practice of some who knowingly dispose or offer for sale, eggs unfit for food. The above suggestions to farmers and the law in itself have been the objects of a great deal of comment.

Forum Puts On Good Program

Friday afternoon at the High School hall the Forum Literary Society put on one of the best and most entertaining programs since the society's organization.

The Girls' Glee club and the Boys' Glee club furnished splendid music, their choruses enthusiastically enjoyed.

Miss Ercel Porter was delightful in a bright take-off on the last day of school, "The Day in District No. 1." A comic recitation, "The Bald Headed Man" was capably done by Harold Anderson and Emerson Chapman's delivery of "The Character of Washington," from Daniel Webster's Bunker Hill oration, was fine.

The audience listened with much attention to Wardus Collopy's instructive explanation of "The Constitutional Convention."

No debate presented by the society has aroused more interest or been argued with more spirit than the question, Resolved, "That Women Should Have the Right to Vote."

Miss Sarah Holmes and Miss Mary Smith argued for the affirmative and Miss Mary Collins and Miss Ruth McCoy for the negative. The four young debaters did most creditable work.

The judges, Miss Dickenson, of Newark, Miss Sheen and Miss Lina Willis awarded the decision to the affirmative.

A marked number on the program was Miss Elizabeth Snider's charming recitation, "An Object of Love." Miss Snider is a graceful elocutionist.

Decidedly creditable to the mind and originality of the young freshman was Miss Jean Fitzgerald's original story, "His Mother."

A pleasing recitation, "Just Around the Corner," was given by Miss Gertrude Dunn. In an amusing reminiscence of school days, Miss Wanda Wolford aroused hearty laughter and applause.

Charles Willis contributed one of the best numbers of the afternoon in an original pot pourri, "Reminiscences" impersonating an old man recalling his school days, with genuine wit in his appropos hits.

Miss Anna Conner was the afternoon's critic.

Miss Prudence Culhan, President, turned the gavel over to Davis Edwards, who presided as the Denison's captain.

The vote resulted in a tie and a coin was tossed to decide the election. Dr. Lanum being the lucky candidate and will be inducted into office April 1st, succeeding Jess W. Smith, who has proven a very popular Exalted Ruler.

Other officers elected are: Arthur Burgett, Loyal Knight; Glenn R. Rodgers, Leading Knight; Robert Sanderson, Lecturing Knight; Clark Gossard, Secretary; J. H. Culhan, Treasurer; Carl Mallow, Trustee; Jess W. Smith, representative to the Grand Lodge.

City Is Free From Disease

For the first time in many months the city is free from contagious diseases. During the past several months diphtheria and scarlet fever have run rife in the outskirts, but the diseases were for the most part very mild, and only three deaths resulted out of over three score cases, death being due to complications.

Not a single case of the disease now exists in the city so far as known. A careful quarantine was maintained over all cases, and the spread of the diseases was almost eliminated.

PARIS IN PROTEST

Ugly Advertising Posters Meet
With Disapproval.

Famed Beauty of the Streets of the Gay Capital Disappearing Because of Greed That Dominates Commercialism.

The beauty of Paris! Do not imagine that Paris has a patent on good taste. Recently a completely Parisian concern of the Boulevard painted its entire front screaming red! Mine. Roland's historic house has a side wall, high, exposed, and one of the department stores spread pink and green letters on it, five feet high. The extensive building operations of the Boulevard have raised up immense hoardings. All are covered with posters, and a fourth of those posters are in doubtful taste.

Can what is grotesque, comic, ugly or aesthetically shocking make a good advertisement? The general practice of greater Paris advertisers says no, but leaves the field of "shock" all the more free to the small and hungry who strain for effect. Nevertheless competition tempts the great advertisers to novelty, and ugliness is novelty—in Paris. So the beauty of the streets trembles in the balance.

The French government wishes to encourage art in street advertisements. When pictorial posters are artistic the public taste is soothed and uplifted; foreign visitors find the beautiful streets free from a note of discord. But note the native poor are even more concerned.

"The street is the parlor of the poor," says the poet Rostand. "The rich in their automobiles can hurry through dirty streets and shut their eyes to advertising vulgarity, but when the poor have an hour of leisure the street is their parlor, salon, museum. Why hang its walls with ugliness and banality?" The author of "Chantecler" as advertising specialist need not astonish you; the astronomer Poincare, cousin of the prime minister, has even analyzed the principles.

"Pictorial advertising has two objects," says the sublime mathematician. "First, to attract attention; second, to fix an obsession, a haunting of the mind. But in order for the obsession to be fruitful the memory must connect the advertised object with the haunting picture and certain other details, as its use, its place of sale, etc. There should be no subconscious effort to forget, as when the impression is ugly, distasteful or merely banal."

Whence the mathematician concludes for simple beauty and harmony to produce lasting returns in posters. Also, if posters be really admitted to the coming Salon, such philosophy of advertising will become part of the art critic's baggage. The merits, not of Vasseur's massage cream or Millard's mince meat, but the obscuring beauty of Roubille's or Leandre's posters of them will obtain solemn discussion—to the equal advantage of Vasseur's and Millard's sales! It will be well worth while to order an art poster.

IN THE SEA IS INDEPENDENCE

Ocean Is Typical of Existence, Jules Verne Said, Supernatural and Wonderful.

The sea is everything. It covers seven-tenths of the terrestrial globe. Its breath is pure and healthy. It is an immense desert, where man is never lonely, for he feels life stirring on all sides.

The sea is only the embodiment of a supernatural and wonderful existence. It is nothing but love and emotion. It is the "living infinite." In fact, Nature manifests herself in it by her three kingdoms, mineral, vegetable and animal. The sea is the vast reservoir of Nature. The globe began with the sea, so to speak; and who knows it will not end with it? In it is supreme tranquillity. The sea does not belong to despots. Upon its surface men can still exercise unjust laws, fight, tear one another to pieces and be carried away with terrestrial horrors. But at 20 feet below its level their reign ceases, their influence is quenched and their power disappears. Live in the bosom of the waters! There only is independence!—Jules Verne.

Columbus, O., March 2.—The new workmen's compensation law is now operative, with about 110 concerns and 1,000 employees contributing to the state insurance fund, which is distributed by the state liability board of awards. The board is not discouraged by the small enrollment because the delay in the supreme court decision upholding the law, which kept the law from being effective Jan. 1, caused most concerns to renew their contracts with liability insurance companies for protection. As these contracts are generally for six months, the board expects a large increase in contributors about July 1. Applications for membership are arriving at the rate of 100 per day. Do not wash eggs. Use the dirty and small eggs at home.

Keep eggs in a cool dry place which is free from odors.

Don't sell eggs which have been in an incubator.

Market your eggs daily, if possible; if not, every other day.

Do not sell eggs which were found in a stolen nest.

Keep the eggs out of the sun when taking them to town.

Don't keep eggs near oil, onions, etc., as they readily absorb odors.

The law provides a penalty for offering bad eggs, and it will be enforced to a great extent. This will be instrumental in breaking up the practice of some who knowingly dispose or offer for sale, eggs unfit for food. The above suggestions to farmers and the law in itself have been the objects of a great deal of comment

Newark; Miss Sheen and Miss Lina Willis awarded the decision to the affirmative.

A marked number on the program was Miss Elizabeth Snider's charming recitation, "An Object of Love." Miss Snider is a graceful elocutionist.

Decidedly creditable to the mind and originality of the young freshman was Miss Jean Fitzgerald's original story, "His Mother."

A pleasing recitation, "Just Around the Corner," was given by Miss Gertrude Dunn. In an amusing reminiscence of school days, Miss Wanda Wolford aroused hearty laughter and applause.

Charles Willis contributed one of the best numbers of the afternoon in an original pot pourri, "Reminiscences" impersonating an old man recalling his school days, with genuine wit in his appropos hits.

Miss Anna Conner was the afternoon's critic.

Miss Prudence Culhan, President, turned the gavel over to Davis Edwards, who presided as the Denison's captain.

Elks Lodge Holds Regular Election

The regular election of the Washington lodge of B. P. O. Elks was held Friday night, resulting in a warm contest for the position of Exalted Ruler. Dr. C. V. Lanum and Mr. M. B. Shank being the leading contestants and both favorites in the lodge.

The vote resulted in a tie and a coin was tossed to decide the election, Dr. Lanum being the lucky candidate and will be inducted into office April 1st, succeeding Jess W. Smith, who has proven a very popular Exalted Ruler.

Other officers elected are: Arthur Burgett, Loyal Knight; Glenn B. Rodgers, Leading Knight; Robert Sanderson, Lecturing Knight; Clark Gossard, Secretary; J. H. Culhan, Treasurer; Carl Mallow, Trustee; Jess W. Smith, representative to the Grand Lodge.

Both teamsters entered a plea of guilty and were given $10 and the costs, which they paid. 5000 lbs. is the limit, wagon included, which may be hauled over soft pikes.

City Is Free From Disease

For the first time in many months the city is free from contagious diseases. During the past several months diphtheria and scarlet fever have run rife in the outskirts, but the diseases were for the most part very mild, and only three deaths resulted out of over three score cases, death being due to complications.

Not a single case of the disease now exists in the city so far as known. A careful quarantine was maintained over all cases, and the spread of the diseases was almost eliminated.

PARIS IN PROTEST

Ugly Advertising Posters Meet With Disapproval.

Famed Beauty of the Streets of the Gay Capital Disappearing Because of Greed That Dominates Commercialism.

The beauty of Paris! Do not imagine that Paris has a patent on good taste. Recently a completely Parisian concern of the Boulevard painted its entire front screaming red! Mme. Roland's historic house has a side wall, high, exposed, and one of the department stores spread pink and green letters on it, five feet high. The extensive building operations of the Boulevard have raised up immense hoardings. All are covered with posters, and a fourth of those posters are in doubtful taste.

Can what is grotesque, comic, ugly or aesthetically shocking make a good advertisement? The general practice of greater Paris advertisers says no, but leaves the field of "shock" all the more free to the small and hungry who strain for effect. Nevertheless competition tempts the great advertisers to novelty, and ugliness is novelty—in Paris. So the beauty of the streets trembles in the balance.

The French government wishes to encourage art in street advertisements. When pictorial posters are artistic the public taste is soothed and uplifted; foreign visitors find the beautiful streets free from a note of discord. But note the native poor are even more concerned.

"The street is the parlor of the poor," says the poet Rostand. "The rich in their automobiles can hurry through dirty streets and shut their eyes to advertising vulgarity, but when the poor have an hour of leisure the street is their parlor, salon, museum. Why hang its walls with ugliness and banality?" The author of "Chantecler" as advertising specialist need not astonish you; the astronomer Poincare, cousin of the prime minister, has even analyzed the principles.

"Pictorial advertising has two objects," says the sublime mathematician. "First, to attract attention; second, to fix an obsession, a haunting of the mind. But in order for the obsession to be fruitful the memory must connect the advertised object with the haunting picture and certain other details, as its use, its place of sale, etc. There should be no subconscious effort to forget, as when the impression is ugly, distasteful or merely banal."

Whence the mathematician concludes for simple beauty and harmony to produce lasting returns in posters. Also, if posters be really admitted to the coming Salon, such philosophy of advertising will become part of the art critic's baggage. The merits, not of Vasseur's massage cream or Millard's mince meat, but the obsessing beauty of Koubille's or Leandre's posters of them will obtain solemn discussion—to the equal advantage of Vasseur's and Millard's sales! It will be well worth while to order an art poster.

IN THE SEA IS INDEPENDENCE

Ocean Is Typical of Existence, Jules Verne Said, Supernatural and Wonderful.

The sea is everything. It covers seven-tenths of the terrestrial globe. Its breath is pure and healthy. It is an immense desert, where man is never lonely, for he feels life stirring on all sides.

The sea is only the embodiment of a supernatural and wonderful existence. It is nothing but love and emotion; it is the "living infinite." In fact, Nature manifests herself in it by her three kingdoms, mineral, vegetable and animal. The sea is the vast reservoir of Nature. The globe began with the sea, so to speak; and who knows it will not end with it? In it is supreme tranquillity. The sea does not belong to despots. Upon its surface men can still exercise unjust laws, fight, tear one another to pieces and be carried away with terrestrial horrors. But at 30 feet below its level their reign ceases, their influence is quenched and their power disappears. Live in the bosom of the waters! There only is independence!—Jules Verne.

Employers Are Slow

So Far Only 110 Have Embraced Liability Law Provisions.

Columbus, O., March 2.—The new workmen's compensation law is now operative, with about 110 concerns and 1,000 employees contributing to the state insurance fund, which is distributed by the state liability board of awards. The board is not discouraged by the small enrollment because the delay in the supreme court decision upholding the law, which kept the law from being effective Jan. 1, caused most concerns to renew their contracts with liability insurance companies for protection. As these contracts are generally for six months, the board expects a large increase in contributors about July 1.

Applications for membership are arriving at the rate of 100 per day. The payrolls of the firms already in arrears are $250,000.

ADDISON HAYS

Addison Hays announces his candidacy for renomination for county commissioner, subject to the Republican primary to be held May 21, 1912.

Mr. Hays has been a citizen of the county of Fayette for the past thirty-five years, and has spent thirty-five years of that time as a contractor, and a great deal of it on public works. He would therefore make an ideal man for the position he aspires, that of looking after the public works of the county. His particular experience would make it hard to find a man better qualified for county commissioner.

He served two years or one term as commissioner and his record was of the best, and he now announces himself as a candidate for re-nomination for another two years, and asks you to give him the customary support for a re-election.

Figures in New York Exhibition

Many friends in this city are interested in the social settlement work in which Miss Myrtle Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thompson, of this city is engaged.

During the past week the mid-year class exhibit of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Y. W. C. A., was held and the New York Journal speaks in the following complimentary way of the corps of teachers, in which Miss Thompson is included.

"The educational department has been unusually fortunate in the staff of teachers this year and the program Thursday night will show something of the excellent work which has been done during the last term.

Besides the usual exhibit of domestic art, pretty dresses and dainty lingerie there will be a chorus by the Glee club, several numbers by the Elocution class and folk dances by the gymnasium class. The French and literature classes will also have a part in the program.

Miss Myrtle Thompson, graduate of Pratt Institute and teacher of sewing and dressmaking is one of the teachers who will receive."

Miss Thompson has been one of the guests of Mrs. Ashley Miller in her house boat, Arkady, in Harlem river. All of the guests were former Indianians and Ohioans.

A full attendance of the members is urged.

Noted Will Case Comes to End

The celebrated case of Joseph Steel vs. the American Bible Society and others, which involved the will of the late Nancy Steel of Ross county, has come to an end, being settled out of court and satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

Mrs. Steel left an estate worth about $30,000 and to the great surprise of many persons the greater portion of the estate was willed to religious organizations and colleges, while the legal heirs were cut off. C. M. Haynes and Nolan L. Gartner were named as executors of the estate and in time qualified.

A tract of land belonging to the estate was sold and $14,000 was deposited in the Kingston bank, when that institution failed. Of this sum, the receivers paid back 35 per cent, and the bonding company for Gartner also paid in several thousand dollars, but the balance had to be made good to the estate by Mr. Haynes.

Ever since the plaintiffs have insisted on the case being tried, the defendants have made overtures for a settlement.

SLOW MAIL FOILED CUPID

Because of the snail-like manner in which Uncle Sam sometimes delivers mail, Mrs. James Wormser, of Morgantown, W. Va., is not the wife of Cecil G. Morris, both having married since that day six years ago when the present Mrs. Wormser wrote a letter from her home, which was at that time at Webster Springs, and accepted the proposal of Morris, who lived at Riverville. The letter was six years on its journey, and when it finally reached Morris it was too late. The letter was mailed in 1906. It reached Riverville, Morris' former home, two days after it was mailed, as the postmark shows. Where the letter has been all these years cannot be ascertained. In a previous letter Morris had proposed to the woman and the missing letter contained her acceptance. Supposing the failure of the woman to answer was a rejection of his proposal, Morris married another. The woman, believing that he had changed his mind after receiving her acceptance, also married.

CORPSE'S HEAD PAYS DOCTOR

Representatives of Dr. Blair of Apache, Okla., traveled through the mountains of east Kentucky recently to Whitesburg, where they claimed the head from the corpse of Smith Fouch, promised 25 years previous as payment for Dr. Blair's services in saving Fouch's life. Fouch was shot in the eye. Dr. Blair performed a hazardous operation, and discovered, he said, that Fouch was able to perform normal functions with a bullet in his brain. Fouch said he could not pay the doctor but offered to will the physician his head. The doctor accepted, and when Fouch died, he left a note asking that Dr. Blair be reminded of the bequest.

ANCIENT MANCHURIAN TOWER

One of the interesting objects recently revealed to occidental eyes in Manchuria is this ancient tower, which stands near the city of Chang Ching. The upper and lower parts are defaced by time and weather, but elaborate carvings to be seen on the mid-portion.

THREE PARTS TO COMET.

A comet has three parts. The nucleus is the bright, starlike point which is the kernel, the true potential comet. Around this is spread the coma, a sort of luminous fog, shading from the nucleus and forming with it the head. Still beyond is the delicate tail, stretching away into space. And this to the world in general is the comet itself, though always the least dense of the whole. Sometimes entirely wanting, or hardly detectible, the tail is again an extension millions of miles in length. Although usually a single brush of light, comets have been seen with no fewer than six tails.

INK FROM SQUIDS

Ancient ink was made by a squeezing out of dead squids after the body was perfectly relaxed. Painters got their sepia from this same squid's bottle. This likewise is the true source of the genuine and original India ink, for which there has never been any satisfactory substitute found. The ink bag is big as a man's thumb and can squirt six feet, darkening more than a hoghead of water, so the squid can make unseen a dart and dash and get away when squid-eating sea fish come around.

CAT CAUSES SUICIDE SCARE

"Please send a policeman here as quickly as possible!" the superintendent of the Riverview apartments, Pittsburgh, said over the phone to Lieutenant Hayes in the police station the other night. "I believe some one has been killed with gas." Policeman Singer arrived at the apartment house out of breath. He was told that the house was filled with gas and was coming from the apartments of Harold Roberts, a civil engineer on the third floor. When the policeman could not get in through the hall doors he climbed up a rear-fire escape. In the kitchen he found gas escaping from the stove and under the stove was an unconscious cat. No member of the Roberts family was at home. The cat had turned on the gas while romping about the stove.

HOUSE OF FAMOUS MEMORIES

Old Mott Mansion in New York Has Long Been a Landmark of the City.

The old Mott Memorial Hall at 64 Madison avenue, New York, which was recently purchased at auction by the McVicker-Gaillard Company for a client for $70,000, was several years ago a famous medical and surgical headquarters, containing the library and surgical specimens of the eminent surgeon Dr. Valentine Mott. Before the erection of the Medical Academy in Forty-third street it was used as the meeting place of many medical societies. The property has been owned by the Mott family for many years and has now just passed into other hands, and within the past week the fine bust of Dr. Mott, made by J. Q. A. Ward, was removed from the old library to the home of one of the sons. Beside being the headquarters of the medical fraternity for many years the Grolier club was organized there, and the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society was also formed there and used the rooms for its meeting place forty years ago.

The first woman physician in this country, Dr. Mary Putnam, read her first paper there. Later day events were the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for member of the assembly, and the private reception given to Charles Stuart Farnell on his first visit to America. Maud Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, also spoke there.

The plot was bought in 1865 for $30,000, and it is said that the two lots north could have been bought for the same figure. So strong has been the upward rise of real estate values that the average price per lot in that section today is $125,000.

MEMORIAL ON HISTORIC SPOT

Plan on Foot to Mark Place Where Important Treaty With Indians Was Signed.

An appeal is being made by the Saskatchewan branch of the Western Art association for funds for the purpose of erecting a memorial at Fort Qu'Appelle to mark the spot where the treaty with the Indians was signed which handed over this country to the use of the white man for ever.

It is proposed that the memorial should take the form of a mass of native rock, with the names of the signatories to the treaty carved upon a bronze tablet which will be let into the face of the stone. This stone will be erected on the site pointed out by Mr. Archie McDonald and the Rev. Father Hugonard of the Mission, who were both personally present at the signing of the treaty.

The committee hopes to be able to mark off the plot of ground around the memorial stone with a suitable enclosure. They appeal to the general public to give them the financial assistance necessary to carry this program to completion, and feel confident that they can count on the support of everyone who is interested in the history of their adopted home. It was a great historic occasion and certainly deserves to be commemorated in some lasting form.

It is estimated that a sum of $3,000 will be required to worthily complete the schemes.—Montreal Herald.

Only Chicken-Nosed Man.

Pottsville, Pa.—Charles William Kalbach, 65 years, the only resident of Pottsville who ever had chicken flesh successfully grafted upon his body, died suddenly at his home here the other day while eating breakfast. Some years ago he met with an accident which resulted in the slicing off of part of his nose, and a local physician successfully experimented by replacing the missing portion with a piece of chicken flesh and skin, with scarcely any disfigurement.

LATEST OF ALPINE SPORTS

The latest Alpine winter sport may be called "bicycle tobogganing," and though it has only been introduced a short time it is likely to become very popular. The "bicycle toboggan" comes from and has so far been seen only in Grindelwald, where its inventor, a local peasant, lives turning out his invention as fast as he is able. The accompanying picture shows that the new machine is much like an ordinary bicycle except for its having neither wheels nor pedals. There are handles by which to steer and foot-rests for the feet, which must be put on the ground wherever braking is necessary. Although at first it is difficult to steer straight, bicycle tobogganing is very easy to learn.

MARVEL OF ALASKA

Alaska is a far distant country, a very rainy country, depressed by a long sub-Arctic nights, but there is somehow a fascination about it which draws back the man or woman who has once experienced it. And the life has once experienced it, but frigid in Alaska is anything but frigid. Though so far from the cities, though for a hundred miles at a time you see not a house along the shore, the few towns are very unlike the raw frontier of the plains. Sitka is a gem with its handsome Greek church, its picturesque shores, its Indian basket sellers. In Juneau is as agreeable social life as you will find anywhere, with the most excellent state dinners. That is the marvel of Alaska—the contrast between the vast loneliness and the truly modern life of the scattered settlements. The first white child born in Alaska is hardly a woman yet, but it is already a community with a strong sense of its own future. From "Practical Alaska," by Albert Bushnell Hart.

Mrs. Allen is teaching at Good Hope, where she slipped on an icy walk, spraining her left ankle and tearing the ligaments in a frightful manner. Dr. Boggs, of Good Hope, brought her up to her home Friday and Dr. Blakeley held an X-Ray examination, finding the condition of the ankle worse than was expected. The accident is an exceedingly painful one. Mrs. Allen will not be able to use her foot for some time.

ADDISON HAYS

Addison Hays announces his candidacy for re-nomination for county commissioner, subject to the Republican primary to be held May 21, 1912.

Mr. Hays has been a citizen of the county of Fayette for the past fifty-two years, and has spent thirty-five years of that time as a contractor, and a great deal of it on public works. He would therefore make an ideal man for the position he aspires, that of looking after the public works of the county. His particular experience would make it hard to find a man better qualified for county commissioner.

He served two years or one term as commissioner and his record was of the best, and he now announces himself as a candidate for re-nomination for another two years, and asks you to give him the customary support for a re-election.

Figuras in New York Exhibition

Many friends in this city are interested in the social settlement work in which Miss Myrtle Thompson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Thompson, of this city is engaged.

During the past week the mid-year class exhibit of the Brooklyn, N. Y., Y. W. C. A., was held and the New York Journal speaks in the following complimentary way of the corps of teachers, in which Miss Thompson is included.

"The educational department has been unusually fortunate in the staff of teachers this year and the program Thursday night will show something of the excellent work which has been done during the last term.

Besides the usual exhibit of domestic art, pretty dresses and dainty lingerie there will be a chorus by the Glee club, several numbers by the Elocution class and folk dances by the gymnasium class. The French and Literature classes will also have a part in the program.

Miss Myrtle Thompson, graduate of Pratt Institute and teacher of sewing and dressmaking is one of the teachers who will receive."

Miss Thompson has been one of the guests of Mrs. Ashley Miller in her house boat, Arkady, in Harlem river. All of the guests were former Indians and Ohioans.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Fayette County Ministerial association will meet in regular session on Monday, March 4, 1912, at 10 a. m., sharp, at the Y. M. C. A. headquarters.

Rev. Thos. L. Bass, of Jeffersonville, will present a paper entitled, "The Manifestations of the Holy Spirit as Taught in the Word of God."

A full attendance of the members is urged.

ROUND C. ORNDORFF, Secretary.

Noted Will Case Comes to End

The celebrated case of Joseph Steel vs. the American Bible Society and others, which involved the will of the late Nancy Steel of Ross county, has come to an end, being settled out of court and satisfactorily to all parties concerned.

Mrs. Steel left an estate worth about $30,000 and to the great surprise of many persons the greater portion of the estate was willed to religious organizations and colleges, while the legal heirs were cut off. C. M. Haynes and Nolan L. Gartner were named as executors of the estate and in time qualified.

A tract of land belonging to the estate was sold and $14,000 was deposited in the Kingston bank, when that institution failed. Of this sum, the receivers paid back 35 per cent, and the bonding company for Gartner also paid in several thousand dollars, but the balance had to be made good to the estate by Mr. Haynes.

Ever since the plaintiffs have insisted on the case being tried, the defendants have made overtures for a settlement.

SLOW MAIL FOILED CUPID

Because of the snail-like manner in which Uncle Sam sometimes delivers mail, Mrs. James Wormser, of Morgantown, W. Va., is not the wife of Cecil G. Morris, both having married since that day six years ago when the present Mrs. Wormser wrote a letter from her home, which was at that time at Webster Springs, and accepted the proposal of Morris, who lived at Riverville. The letter was six years on its journey, and when it finally reached Morris it was too late. The letter was mailed in 1906. It reached Riverville, Morris' former home, two days after it was mailed, as the postmark shows. Where the letter has been all these years cannot be ascertained. In a previous letter Morris had proposed to the woman and the missing letter contained her acceptance. Supposing the failure of the woman to answer was a rejection of his proposal, Morris married another. The woman, believing that he had changed his mind after receiving her acceptance, also married.

CORPSE'S HEAD PAYS DOCTOR

Representatives of Dr. Blair of Apache, Okla., traveled through the mountains of east Kentucky recently to Whitesburg, where they claimed the head from the corpse of Smith Fouch, promised 25 years previous as payment for Dr. Blair's services in saving Fouch's life. Fouch was shot in the eye. Dr. Blair performed a hazardous operation, and discovered, he said, that Fouch was able to perform normal functions with a bullet in his brain. Fouch said he could not pay the doctor but offered to will the physician his head. The doctor accepted, and when Fouch died, he left a note asking that Dr. Blair be reminded of the bequest.

ANCIENT MANCHURIAN TOWER

One of the interesting objects recently revealed to occidental eyes in Manchuria is this ancient tower, which stands near the city of Chang Ching. The upper and lower parts are decorated by time and weather, but elaborate carvings to be seen on the mid-portion.

THREE PARTS TO COMET.

A comet has three parts. The nucleus is the bright, starlike point which is the kernel, the true potential comet. Around this is spread the coma, a sort of luminous fog, shading from the nucleus and forming with it the head. Still beyond is the delicate tail, stretching away into space. And this to the world in general is the comet itself, though always the least dense of the whole. Sometimes entirely wanting, or hardly detectible, the tail is again an extension millions of miles in length. Although usually a single brush of light, comets have been seen with no fewer than six tails.

INK FROM SQUIDS

Ancient ink was made by a squeezing out of dead squids after the body was perfectly relaxed. Painters got their sepia from this same squid's bottle. This likewise is the true source of the genuine and original India ink, for which there has never been any satisfactory substitute found. The ink bag is big as a man's thumb and can squig six feet, darkening more than a hoghead of water, so the squid can make unseen a dart and dash and get away when squid-eating sea fish come around.

CAT CAUSES SUICIDE SCARE

"Please send a policeman here as quickly as possible," the superintendent of the Riverview apartments, Pittsburg, said over the phone to Lieutenant Hayes in the police station the other night. "I believe some one has been killed with gas." Policeman Singer arrived at the apartment house out of breath. He was told that the house was filled with gas and was coming from the apartments of Harold Roberts, a civil engineer on the third floor. When the policeman could not get in through the hall doors he climbed up a rear-fire escape. In the kitchen he found gas escaping from the stove and under the stove was an unconscious cat. No member of the Roberts family was at home. The cat had turned on the gas while romping about the stove.

HOUSE OF FAMOUS MEMORIES

Old Mott Mansion in New York Has Long Been a Landmark of the City.

The old Mott Memorial Hall at 64 Madison avenue, New York, which was recently purchased at auction by the McVicker/Gallard Company for a client for $70,000, was several years ago a famous medical and surgical headquarters, containing the library and surgical specimens of the eminent surgeon Dr. Valentine Mott. Before the erection of the Medical Academy in Forty-third street it was used as the meeting place of many medical societies. The property has been owned by the Mott family for many years and has now just passed into other hands, and within the past week the fine bust of Dr. Mott, made by J. Q. A. Ward, was removed from the old building.

Mott House in New York.

Library to the home of one of the sons. Beside being the headquarters of the medical fraternity for many years the Grolier club was organized there, and the New York Genealogical and Biographical Society was also formed there and used the rooms for its meeting place forty years ago.

The first woman physician in this country, Dr. Mary Putnam, read her first paper there. Later day events were the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for member of the assembly, and the private reception given to Charles Stuart Farnell on his first visit to America. Maud Gonne, the Irish Joan of Arc, also spoke there.

The plot was bought in 1865 for $30,000, and it is said that the two lots north could have been bought for the same figure. So strong has been the upward rise of real estate values that the average price per lot in that section today is $125,000.

MEMORIAL ON HISTORIC SPOT

Plan on Foot to Mark Place Where Important Treaty With Indians Was Signed.

An appeal is being made by the Saskatchewan branch of the Western Art association for funds for the purpose of erecting a memorial at Fort Qu'Appelle to mark the spot where the treaty with the Indians was signed which handed over this country to the use of the white man for ever.

It is proposed that the memorial should take the form of a mass of native rock, with the names of the signatories to the treaty carved upon a bronze tablet which will be let into the face of the stone. This stone will be erected on the site pointed out by Mr. Archie McDonald and the Rev. Father Hugonard of the Mission, who were both personally present at the signing of the treaty.

The committee hopes to be able to mark off the plot of ground around the memorial stone with a suitable enclosure. They appeal to the general public to give them the financial assistance necessary to carry this program to completion, and feel confident that they can count on the support of everyone who is interested in the history of their adopted home. It was a great historic occasion and certainly deserves to be commemorated in some lasting form.

It is estimated that a sum of $3,000 will be required to worthily complete the schemes.—Montreal Herald.

Only Chicken-Necked Man.

Pottsville, Pa.—Charles William Kalbach, 65 years, the only resident of Pottsville who ever had chicken flesh successfully grafted upon his body, died suddenly at his home here the other day while eating breakfast. Some years ago he met with an accident which resulted in the slicing off of part of his nose, and a local physician successfully experimented by replacing the missing portion with a piece of chicken flesh and skin, with scarcely any disfigurement.

Brings Suit For Partition

Darius Pavey against Jernus Pavey, Alice Todhunter, Bessie Rowe, J. F. Rowe, Gertrude McCoy, Alvah McCoy, Elva McCoy and Isaac Pavey, is the style of a partition suit brought in common pleas court.

He asks that partition be made of the estate and that his interest be set off accordingly.

Case Continued

In the case of John N. Vandeman et al against Almer Hegler, which has been in progress in Common Pleas court the past two days, the trial was postponed Saturday noon until Monday morning, when it will be resumed.

LATEST OF ALPINE SPORTS

The latest Alpine winter sport may be called "bicycle tobogganing," and though it has only been introduced a short time it is likely to become very popular. The "bicycle toboggan" comes from and has so far been seen only in Grindelwald, where its inventor, a local peasant, lives turning out his invention as fast as he is able. The accompanying picture shows that the new machine is much like an ordinary bicycle except for its having neither wheels nor pedals. There are handrails for the feet, which must be put on the ground wherever braking is necessary. Although at first it is difficult to steer straight, bicycle-tobogganing is very easy to learn.

MARVEL OF ALASKA

Alaska is a far distant country, a very rainy country, depressed by the long sub-Arctic nights, but there is somehow a fascination about it which draws back the man or woman who has once experienced it. And the life in Alaska is anything but trivial. Though so far from the cities, though for a hundred miles at a time you see not a house along the shore, the few towns are very unlike the raw frontier of the plains. Sitka is a gem, with its handsome Greek church, its old Russian headquarters, its picturesque shores, its agreeable social life. In Juneau is as agreeable a life as you will find anywhere, with its most excellent state dinners. That is the marvel of Alaska—the contrast between the vast loneliness and the truly modern life of the scattered settlements. The first white child born in Alaska is hardly a woman yet, but it is already a community with a strong sense of its own future.—"Practical Alaska," by Albert Ballou Hart.

THE PRODIGAL JUDGE

By VAUGHAN KESTER

A little farther on he found the place where Slosson had launched the boat the night before. The keel of his boat had cut deep into the slippery mud; more than this, the impress of a small shoe was repeated here, and beside it was the print of a child's bare foot.

He no longer doubted that Betty and Hannibal had been taken across the bayou to the cabin, and he ran back up the path the distance of a mile and plunged into the woods on his right, his purpose being to pass around the head of the expanse of sluggish water to a point from which he could later approach the cabin.

But the cabin proved to be better defended than he had foreseen; and as he advanced, the difficulties of the task he had set himself became almost insurmountable; yet sustained by his way through the labyrinth of trailing vines, or floundered across wide patches of green slime and black mud, which at each step threatened to engulf him in their treacherous depths, until at the end of an hour he gained the southern side of the clearing and a firmer footing beneath the shelter of the woods.

Here he paused and took stock of his surroundings. The two or three buildings Mr. Hicks had erected stood away from the clearing and were very modest improvements adapted to their owner's somewhat flippant pursuit of agriculture. While Carrington was still staring about him, the cabin door swung open and a woman stepped forth. It was the girl Bess. She went to a corner of the building and called loudly:

"Joe! Oh, Joe!"

Carrington glanced in the direction of the keel boat and an instant later saw Slosson clamber over its side. The tavern-keeper crossed to the cabin, where he was met by Bess, who placed in his hands what seemed to be a wooden bowl. With this she slouched off to one of the outbuildings, which he entered. Ten or fifteen minutes slipped by, then he came from the shed and after securing the door, returned to the cabin. He was again met by Bess, who relieved him of the bowl; they exchanged a few words and Slosson walked away and afterward disappeared over the side of the keel boat.

This much was clear to the Kentuckian: food had been taken to some one in the shed—to Betty and the boy!—more likely to George.

He waited now for the night to come, and to him the sun seemed fixed in the heavens. At Belle Plain Tom Ware was watching it with a shuddering sense of the swiftness of its flight. But at last the tops of the tall trees obscured it; it sank quickly then and blazed a ball of fire beyond the Arkansas coast, while its dying glory spread aslant the heavens, turning the flanks of the gray clouds to violet and purple and gold.

With the first approach of darkness Carrington made his way to the shed. Hidden in the shadow he paused to listen, and fancied he heard difficult breathing from within. The door creaked hideously on its wooden hinges when he pushed it open, but as it swung back the least remnant of the day's light showed him some dark object lying prone on the dirt floor. He reached down and his hand rested on a man's booted foot.

"George!" Carrington spoke softly, but the man on the floor gave no sign that he heard, and Carrington's questioning touch stealing higher he found that George—if it were George—was lying on his side with his arms and legs securely bound. Thinking he slept, the Kentuckian shook him gently to arouse him.

"George?" he repeated, still bending above him. This time an inarticulate murmur answered him. At the same instant the woolly head of the negro came under his fingers and he discovered the reason of his silence. He was as securely gagged as he was bound.

"Listen, George—it's Carrington—I am going to take off this gag, but don't speak above a whisper—they may hear us!" And he cut the cords that held the gag in place.

"How yo' get here, Mas'r Caing?" "Around the head of the bayou."

"Lawd!" exclaimed George, in a tone of wonder.

"Where's Miss Betty?" "She's in the cabin yonder—for the love of God, cut these here other ropes with yo' knife, Mas'r Caington—I'm perishin' with 'em!" Carrington did as he asked, and groaning, George sat erect. "I'm like I was gone to sleep all over," he said.

"You'll feel better in a moment. Tell me about Miss Malroy?"

"They done fetched us here last night. I was drivin' Missy into Raleigh—her and young Mas'r Hazard—when fo' men stop us in the road."

"Who were they, do you know?" asked Carrington.

"Lawd—what's that?"

Carrington, knife in hand, swung about on his heel. A lantern's light ton?" asked the negro guardedly, as the gag fell away.

Dashed suddenly in his face and Bess Hicks, with a low startled cry breaking from her lips, paused in the doorway. Springing forward, Carrington seized her by the wrist.

"Hush!" he grimly warned.

"What are you doin' here?" demanded the girl, as she endeavored to shake off his hand, but Carrington drew her into the shed, and closing the door, set his back against it. There was a brief silence during which Bess regarded the Kentuckian with a kind of stolid fearlessness. She was the first to speak. "I reckon you all have come after Miss Malroy," she observed quietly.

"Then you reckon right," answered Carrington. The girl studied him from her level brows.

"And you all think you can take her away from here," she speculated. "I ain't afraid of yo' knife—you all might use it fast enough on a man, but not on me. I'll help you," she added. Carrington gave her an incredulous glance. "You don't believe me? That would fetch our men up from the keel boat. No—you all's knife wouldn't stop me!"

"Don't be too sure of that," said Carrington sternly. The girl met the menace of his words with soft, full-throated laughter.

"Why, yo' hands shakin' now, Mr. Carrington?"

"You know me?"

"Yes, I seen you once at Boggs'." She made an impatient movement. "You can't do nothing against them fo' men unless I help you. Miss Malroy's to go down river tonight; they're only waiting fo' a pilot—you all's got to act quick!"

Carrington hesitated. "Why do you want Miss Malroy to escape?" he said.

The girl's mood changed abruptly. She scowled at him.

"I reckon that's a private matter. Ain't it enough fo' you all to know that I do? I'm showing how it can be done. Them four men on the keel boat are strangers in these parts; they're waiting fo' a pilot, but they don't know who he'll be. I've heard you all was a river-man; what's to hinder yo' taking the pilot's place? Looks like yo' was willing to risk yo' life fo' Miss Malroy or you wouldn't be here."

"I'm ready," said Carrington, his hand on the door.

"No, you ain't—jest yet," interposed the girl hastily. "Listen to me first. They's a dugout tied up 'bout a hundred yards above the keel boat; you must get that to cross in to the other side of the bayou, then when yo're ready to come back yo're to whistle three times—it's the signal we're expecting—and I'll row across fo' you in one of the skiffs."

"Can you see Miss Malroy in the meantime?"

"If I want to, they's nothin' to hinder me," responded Bess sullenly.

"Tell her then—" began Carrington, but Bess interrupted him.

"I know what yo' want. She ain't to cry out or nothin' when she sees you all. I got sense enough fo' that."

Carrington looked at her curiously. "This may be a serious business for your people," he said significantly, and watched her narrowly.

"And you all may get killed. I reckon if yo' want to do anything bad enough you don't mind much what comes after," she answered with a hard little laugh, as she went from the shed.

"Come!" said Carrington to the negro, when he had seen the cabin door close on Bess and her lantern; and they stole across the clearing. Reaching the bayou side they began a noiseless search for the dugout, which they quickly found, and Carrington turned to George. "Can you swim?" he asked.

"Yes, Mas'r."

"Then go down into the water and drag the canoe farther along the shore—and for God's sake, no sound!" he cautioned.

They placed a second hundred yards between themselves and the keel boat in this manner, then he had George bring the dugout to the bank, and they embarked. Keeping within the shadow of the trees that fringed the shore, Carrington paddled silently about the head of the bayou.

"George," he at length said, bending toward the negro; "my horse is tied in the woods on the right-hand side of the road just where you were taken from the carriage last night—you can be at Belle Plain inside of an hour."

"Look here, Mas'r Caington, those folks yonder is kin to Boss Hicks. If he gets his hand on me first don't you reckon he'll stop my mouth?"

"Been here heaps of times fetchin' letters fo' Mas'r Tom," added George.

"Who were the letters fo'?" asked the Kentuckian, greatly surprised.

"They was fo' that Captain Murrell; seems like him and Mas'r Tom was mixed up in a sight of business."

"When was this—recently?" inquired Carrington.

"Well, no, Mas'r; seems like they ain't so thick here recently."

"I reckon you'd better keep away from the big house yet a while," said Carrington. "Instead of going there, stop at the Belle Plain landing. You'll find a raft tied up to the shore; it belongs to a man named Cavendish. Tell him what you know—that I've found Miss Malroy and the boy; tell him to cast off and drift down here. I'll run the keel boat around the first chance I get, so tell him to keep a sharp lookout."

It will be the largest gathering of taxing officials in the history of the state and more than 200 are expected to attend the conference. This will be in the nature of a school of instructions. The principal object is to instruct the visitors in the best methods of obtaining a better enforcement of the taxing laws.

It is the intention of the commission that all assessors receive proper and uniform instructions as to their duties and they will be given to understand that they must perform their work strictly according to law.

Diaz Willing to Rescue Mexicans if Recalled From Exile.

New York, March 2.—General Porfirio Diaz, the ex-president of Mexico, who sailed into his exile May 31 of last year, after the revolution of Francisco Madero had brought his many years of dictatorship to an end, is willing to come back to Mexico and lead the people out of their present difficulties if "a strong call" is sent to him. Such is the statement made by him in a letter of recent date which he sent to a former trusted lieutenant and official under his government, who is now in New York.

General Diaz is now living in retirement with his son, Colonel Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his son's family, at Cape Dail near Toulon, in the south of France.

The burglars who robbed the hardware store of J. R. Dille in Mt. Sterling Monday night and were traced to this city where they disposed of part of the goods stolen and where they purchased tickets for Columbus, have not been located, and all hopes of finding them have vanished.

Among the articles stolen were 45 pocket knives, six razors, four safety razors, a rain coat and a quantity of silver knives and forks. A few of the pocket knives were sold here.

THE PRODIGAL JUDGE

By VAUGHAN KESTER
ILLUSTRATIONS BY D. MELVILLE

A little farther on he found the place where Slosson had launched the attack the night before. The keel of his boat had cut deep into the slippery mud; more than this, the impress of a small shoe was repeated here, and beside it was the print of a child's bare foot.

He no longer doubted that Betty Hannibal had been taken across the bayou to the cabin, and he ran back up the path the distance of a mile and plunged into the woods on his right, his purpose being to pass around the head of the expanse of sluggish water to a point from which he could later approach the cabin.

But the cabin proved to be better defended than he had foreseen; and as he advanced, the difficulties of the ascent had set himself became almost insurmountable; yet sustained by his imperative need, he went on his way through the labyrinth of trailing vines, or floundered across cross-wide patches of green slime and black mud, which at each step threatened to engulf him in their treacherous depths, until at the end of an hour he gained the southern side of the clearing and a firmer footing under the shelter of the woods.

Here he paused and took stock of his surroundings. The two or three stumps Mr. Hicks had crested stood above the clearing and were very modest improvements adapted to their owner's somewhat flippant pursuit of agriculture. While Carrington was still staring about him, the cabin door swung open and a woman stepped forth. It was the girl Bess. She went to a corner of the building and called loudly:

"Joe! Oh, Joe!"

Carrington glanced in the direction of the keel boat and an instant later saw Slosson clamber over its side. The tavern-keeper crossed to the cabin, where he was met by Bess, who placed in his hands what seemed to be a wooden bowl. With this he slouched off to one of the outbuildings, which he entered. Ten or fifteen minutes slipped by, then he came from the shed and after securing the door, returned to the cabin. He was again met by Bess, who relieved him of the bowl; they exchanged a few words and Slosson walked away and afterward disappeared over the side of the keel boat.

This much was clear to the Kentuckian: food had been taken to some one in the shed—to Betty and the boy!—more likely to George.

He waited now for the night to come, and to him the sun seemed fixed in the heavens. At Belle Plain Tom Ware was watching it with a shuddering sense of the swiftness of its flight. But at last the tops of the tall trees obscured it; it sank quickly and a ball of fire beyond the Arkansas coast, while its dying glory spread aslant the heavens, turning the flanks of the gray clouds to violet and purple and gold.

With the first approach of darkness Carrington made his way to the shed. Hidden in the shadow he paused to listen, and fancied he heard distant breathing from within. The door creaked hideously on its wooden hinges when he pushed it open, but as it swung back the last remnant of the day's light showed him some dark object lying prone on the dirt floor. He reached down and his hand rested on a man's booted foot.

"George!" Carrington spoke softly, but the man on the floor gave no sign that he heard, and Carrington's questioning touch stealing higher he found that George—if it were George—was lying on his side with his arms and legs securely bound. Thinking he slept, the Kentuckian shook him gently to arouse him.

"George?" he repeated, still bending to move him. This time an inarticulate murmur answered him. At the same instant the woolly head of the negro came under his fingers and he discovered the reason of his silence. He was as securely gagged as he was bound.

"Listen, George—it's Carrington—I am going to take off this gag, but don't speak above a whisper—they may hear us!" And he cut the cords that held the gag in place.

"How you get here, Mas'r Carrington?"

"Around the head of the bayou."

"Lawd!" exclaimed George, in a tone of wonder.

"Where's Miss Betty?"

"She's in the cabin yonder—to the love of God, cut these here other ropes with yo' knife, Mas'r Carrington—I'm perishin' with 'em!" Carrington did as he asked, and groaning, George sat erect. "I'm like I was gone to sleep all over," he said.

"You'll feel better in a moment. Tell me about Miss Malroy?"

"They done fetched us here last night. I was drivin' Missy into Raleigh—her and young Mas'r Hazard—when fo' men stop us in the road."

"Who were they, do you know?" asked Carrington.

"Lawd—what's that?"

Carrington, knife in hand, swung about on his heel. A lantern's light testified the negro guardedly, as the one fell away. Slosson suddenly in his face and Bess Hicks, with a low startled cry breaking from her lips, paused in the doorway. Springing forward, Carrington seized her by the wrist.

"Hush!" he grimly warned.

"What are you doin' here?" demanded the girl, as she endeavored to shake off his hand, but Carrington drew her into the shed, and closing the door, set his back against it. There was a brief silence during which Bess regarded the Kentuckian with a kind of stolid fearlessness. She was the first to speak. "I reckon you all have come after Miss Malroy," she observed quietly.

"Then you reckon right," answered Carrington. The girl studied him from her level brows.

"And you-all think you can take her away from here," she speculated. "I ain't afraid of yo' knife—you-all might use it fast enough on a man, but not on me. I'll help you," she added. Carrington gave her an incredulous glance. "You don't believe me? That would fetch our men up from the keel boat. No—you-all's knife wouldn't stop me!"

"Don't be too sure of that," said Carrington sternly. The girl met the menace of his words with soft, full-throated laughter.

"Why, yo' hands shakin' now, Mr. Carrington?"

"You know me?"

"Yes, I seen you once at Hogs'." She made an impatient movement. "You can't do nothing against them fo' men unless I help you. Miss Malroy's to go down river tonight; they're only waiting fo' a pilot—you-all's got to act quick!"

Carrington hesitated.

"Why do you want Miss Malroy to escape?" he said.

The girl's mood changed abruptly. She scowled at him.

"I reckon that's a private matter. Ain't it enough fo' you-all to know that I do? I'm showing how it can be done. Them four men on the keel boat are strangers in these parts, they're waiting fo' a pilot, but they don't know who he'll be. I've heard you-all was a river-man, what's to hinder yo' taking the pilot's place? Looks like yo' was willing to risk yo' life fo' Miss Malroy or you wouldn't be here."

"I'm ready," said Carrington, his hand on the door.

"No, you ain't—jest yet," interposed the girl hastily. "Listen to me first. They's a dugout tied up 'bout a hundred yards above the keel boat; you must get that to cross in to the other side of the bayou, then when yo're ready to come back yo're to whistle three times—it's the signal we're expecting—and I'll row across fo' you in one of the skiffs."

"Can you see Miss Malroy in the meantime?"

"If I want to, they's nothin' to hinder me," responded Bess sullenly.

"Tell her then—" began Carrington, but Bess interrupted him.

"I know what yo' want. She ain't to cry out or nothin' when she sees you-all. I got sense enough fo' that."

Carrington looked at her curiously.

"This may be a serious business for your people," he said significantly, and watched her narrowly.

"And you-all may get killed, I reckon, in if yo' want to do anything had enough you don't mind much what comes after," she answered with a hard little laugh, as she went from the shed.

"Come!" said Carrington to the negro, when he had seen the cabin door close on Bess and her lantern, and they stole across the clearing. Reaching the bayou side they began a noiseless search for the dugout, which they quickly found, and Carrington turned to George. "Can you swim?" he asked.

"Yes, Mas'r."

"Then go down into the water and drag the canoe farther along the shore—and for God's sake, no sound!" he cautioned.

They placed a second hundred yards between themselves and the keel boat in this manner, then he had George bring the dugout to the bank, and they embarked. Keeping within the shadow of the trees that fringed the shore, Carrington paddled silently about the head of the bayou.

"George," he at length said, bending toward the negro, "my horse is tied in the woods on the right-hand side of the road just where you were taken from the carriage last night—you can be at Belle Plain inside of an hour."

"Look here, Mas'r Carrington, those folks yonder is kin to Boss Hicks. If he gets his hand on me first don't you reckon he'll stop my mouth? I been here heaps of times fetchin' letters fo' Mas'r Tom," added George.

"Who were the letters fo'?" asked the Kentuckian, greatly surprised.

"They was fo' that Captain Murrell; seems like him and Mas'r Tom was mixed up in a sight of business."

"When was this—recently?" inquired Carrington. He was turning over this astonishing statement of the slave over in his mind.

"Well, no, Mas'r; seems like they ain't so thick here better."

"I reckon you'd better keep away from the big house yet a while," said Carrington. "Instead of going there, stop at the Belle Plain landing. You'll find a raft tied up to the shore; it belongs to a man named Cavendish. Tell him what you know—that I've found Miss Malroy and the boy; tell him to cast off and drift down here. I'll run the keel boat around the first chance I get, so tell him to keep a sharp lookout."

To be Continued.

Has Ear To Ground

Diaz Willing to Rescue Mexicans if Recalled From Exile.

New York, March 2.—General Porfirio Diaz, the ex-president of Mexico, who sailed into his exile May 31 of last year, after the revolution of Francisco Madero had brought his many years of dictatorship to an end, is willing to come back to Mexico and lead the people out of their present difficulties if "a strong call" is sent to him. Such is the statement made by him in a letter of recent date which he sent to a former trusted lieutenant and official under his government, who is now in New York.

General Diaz is now living in retirement with his son, Colonel Porfirio Diaz, Jr., and his son's family, at Cape Paul near Toulon, in the south of France.

Big Tax Gathering Columbus, March 19

With a view to getting better results in the matter of personal property assessment, the Ohio tax commission has summoned all of the county auditors, and one member of each of city boards of review to meet in Columbus, March 19. It will be the largest gathering of taxing officials in the history of the state and more than 200 are expected to attend the conference. This will be in the nature of a school of instructions. The principal object is to instruct the visitors in the best methods of obtaining a better enforcement of the taxing laws.

It is the intention of the commission that all assessors receive proper and uniform instructions as to their duties and they will be given to understand that they must perform their work strictly according to law.

State Auditor Fullington and his deputy, A. W. Beatty, have been invited to attend, and members of the Columbus board of review are assisting in making arrangements for the meeting. The tax commission is not satisfied with the present laws relating to taxation and in its annual report has recommended a change in the method of assessing personal property. They favor a plan like that outlined in the Edwards bill before the last legislature.

County Auditor A. E. Henkle has received notice of the meeting, and requested to be present.

Burglars Made Safe Getaway

The burglars who robbed the hardware store of I. R. Dille in Mt. Sterling Monday night and were traced to this city where they disposed of part of the goods stolen and where they purchased tickets for Columbus, have not been located, and all hopes of finding them have vanished.

Among the articles stolen were 45 pocket knives, six razors, four safety razors, a rain coat and a quantity of silver knives and forks. A few of the pocket knives were sold here.

STARS OF LAST YEAR

Many Youngsters Came to Front During Last Season.

$22,500 Beauty, Marty O'Toole, Did Not Join Pittsburgh Team Until Late—Joe Jackson Best Fielder Unearthed.

Perhaps in no season in recent years were as many crack youngsters discovered or developed as during the campaign of 1911. The new stars discovered in the pitcher's box were Rube Marquard of the Giants, Grover Cleveland Alexander and George Chalmers of the Phillies, Vean Gregg of the Cleveland Naps, Roy Caldwell of the Highlanders, Marty O'Toole of the Pirates, and Buck O'Brien of the Boston Red Sox. Other promising young boxmen of 1911 who may get into the star class in another season or two were Bill Steele of the Cardinals, Dave Danforth of the Athletics, Gene Krapp of the Cleveland Naps, Bobbie Keefe and Rube Benton of the Cincinnati Reds and George Tyler of the Boston Nationals.

With the exception of Rube Marquard all these men were 1911 discoveries. The tall, lanky portside of the Giants has been in the big show since 1908, but last season was the first in which he earned his rations. Rube had to travel about the country in 1909 and 1910 with the reputation of being the biggest lemon ever plucked from the bushes, but Marquard showed his critics last season, when he was one of the biggest factors in the Giants' great fight for the pennant, and also twirled himself to the leadership in the official pitching records. Marquard finished the season with 24 victories and seven defeats.

As Rube has been in the big show since 1908, the question of what was the biggest pitching find of 1911 rests between Grover Alexander of the Phillies and Vean Gregg of the Naps. These two men pitched phenomenal ball, though Gregg's arm went lame near the end of the season, preventing his appearance in the box after early September. Gregg's record was almost identical with the one made by Marquard. Gregg won 23 games and lost 7. This was a remarkable feat, considering that it was achieved with a team that finished the season with an average of .323.

Gregg finished second among the American league hurlers. Alexander won five more games than Gregg, but suffered six more defeats than the Cleveland phenom. Alexander finished fourth in the official National league pitching records, with 28 victories and 13 defeats. Alexander's team finished the season with almost the same record as that made by the Naps, the Phillies' final average being .520.

"Slim" Caldwell of the Hilltoppers is another youngster who showed his metal in 1911. Though he joined the Kilites in 1910, Caldwell was practically untied until last season. He managed to break even in 28 games, but many of his defeats were hard-luck affairs in which a run or two would have changed the tide of battle in his favor.

Marty O'Toole and Buck O'Brien are youngsters who did not join their teams until late in the season. The $22,500 wonder of the Pirates won three games and lost two. O'Brien, of the Red Sox, looked every bit as good as his more expensive brother. Buck won four games out of five starts and enjoys the distinction of being one of the four men to shut out the Athletics last season.

Though the majority of the 1911 finds were pitchers, many other brilliant youngsters won their spurs in other positions. Joe Jackson undoubtedly was the biggest find of the year. Though Joe had been in the American league in 1908, when Connie Mack first grabbed him from Greenville, S. C., he was really a 1911 development. It is true Joe batted for .387 for 20 games in 1910 and beat out Ty Cobb for the nominal leadership in batting, but last season was his first complete campaign in the majors.

Offer Of Wage Increase Rejected

Textile Workers Decide to Hold Out For Original Demands.

Lawrence, Mass., March 2.—An increase of not less than 5 per cent in wages paid to the mill operatives here is not satisfactory to the general strike committee of the Industrial Workers of the World. The general committee voted to insist upon the acceptance of their original demands, namely, a wage increase of 15 per cent, double pay for overtime, the abolition of the premium system and no discrimination against the strikers.

Following the meeting, a subcommittee of 10 went to Boston and conferred with President Wood of the American Woolen company and others. The subcommittee was instructed to insist upon the granting of the above demands, and no agreement was reached. What transpired at the conference will be told to the committee at a meeting today.

While the offer may not be agreeable to the strike committee, it is believed by the mill people that the promised increase will result in the strikers flocking back to their places next Monday.

Many Youngsters Came to Front During Last Season.

$22,500 Beauty, Marty O'Toole, Did Not Join Pittsburgh Team Until Late—Joe Jackson Best Fielder Unearthed.

Perhaps in no season in recent years were as many crack youngsters discovered or developed as during the campaign of 1911. The new stars discovered in the pitcher's box were Rube Marquard of the Giants, Grover Cleveland Alexander and George Chalmers of the Phillies, Vean Gregg of the Cleveland Naps, Roy Caldwell of the Highlanders, Marty O'Toole of the Pirates, and Buck O'Brien of the Boston Red Sox. Other promising young boxmen of 1911 who may get into the star class in another season or two were Bill Steele of the Cardinals, Dave Danforth of the Athletics, Gene Krapp of the Cleveland Naps, Bobbie Keefe and Rube Benton of the Cincinnati Reds and George Tyler of the Boston Nationals.

With the exception of Rube Marquard all these men were 1911 discoveries. The tall, lanky portlander of the Giants has been in the big show since 1908, but last season was the first in which he earned his rations. Rube had to travel about the country in 1909 and 1910 with the reputation of being the biggest lemon ever plucked from the bushes, but Marquard showed his critics last season, when he was one of the biggest factors in the Giants' great fight for the pennant, and also twirled himself to the leadership in the official pitching records. Marquard finished the season with 24 victories and seven defeats.

As Rube has been in the big show since 1908, the question of what was the biggest pitching find of 1911 rests between Grover Alexander of the Phillies and Vean Gregg of the Naps. These two men pitched phenomenal ball, though Gregg's arm went lame near the end of the season, preventing his appearance in the box after early September. Gregg's record was almost identical with the one made by Marquard. Gregg won 23 games and lost 7. This was a remarkable feat, considering that it was achieved with a team that finished the season with an average of .523.

Gregg finished second among the American league hurlers. Alexander won five more games than Gregg, but suffered six more defeats than the Cleveland phenom. Alexander finished fourth in the official National league pitching records, with 28 victories and 13 defeats. Alexander's team finished the season with almost the same record as that made by the Naps, the Phillies' final average being .520.

"Slim" Caldwell of the Hilltoppers is another youngster who showed his metal in 1911. Though he joined the Kilties in 1910, Caldwell was practically untied until last season. He managed to break even in 28 games, but many of his defeats were hard-luck affairs in which a run or two would have changed the tide of battle in his favor.

Marty O'Toole and Buck O'Brien are youngsters who did not join their teams until late in the season. The $22,500 wonder of the Pirates won three games and lost two. O'Brien, of the Red Sox, looked every bit as good as his more expensive brother. Buck won four games out of five starts and enjoys the distinction of being one of the four men to shut out the Athletics last season.

Though the majority of the 1911 finds were pitchers, many other

Most youngsters won their spurs in other positions. Joe Jackson undoubtedly was the biggest find of the year. Though Joe had been in the American league in 1908, when Connie Mack first grabbed him from Greenville, S. C., he was really a 1911 development. It is true Joe batted for .337 for 20 games in 1910 and beat out Ty Cobb for the nominal leadership in batting, but last season was his first complete campaign in the majors.

Offer Of Wage Increase Rejected

Textile Workers Decide to Hold Out For Original Demands.

Lawrence, Mass., March 2.—An increase of not less than 5 per cent in wages paid to the mill operatives here is not satisfactory to the general strike committee of the Industrial Workers of the World. The general committee voted to insist upon the acceptance of their original demands, namely, a wage increase of 15 per cent, double pay for overtime, the abolition of the premium system and no discrimination against the strikers.

Following the meeting, a sub-committee of 10 went to Boston and conferred with President Wood of the American Woolen company and others. The subcommittee was instructed to insist upon the granting of the above demands, and no agreement was reached. What transpired at the conference will be told to the committee at a meeting today.

While the offer may not be agreeable to the strike committee, it is believed by the mill people that the promised increase will result in the strikers flocking back to their places next Monday.
